370 CHINESE KILLED WHEN RUSS TROOPS ATTACK URGA

Two Battles Waged North Of City; Fighting Lasts 8 Hours

MANY WOUNDED

Both Sides Suffer Severe Losses; Garrison Force Is Outnumbered

REWARDS GIVEN

Peking Sends $5,000 To Defenders And Large Re-inforcement

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Peking, Oct. 27.—The Government has received a telegram from Kao Tsai-ting, a regimental commander at Urga, dated October 26, which states that about 2,000 Russians attacked Urga from the hills at two o'clock the same morning, covering the main attack from the north with a feint from the east. The enemy possessed six guns and machine-guns, with which they caused 300 casualties among the Chinese, mainly civilians.

The Chinese infantry were posted to the east of the city, and the cavalry to the north. Eventually the enemy reached a point 500 meters from the Chinese lines, when the latter opened a cross fire with their guns, machine-guns and rifles, but the numerical superiority of the Russians told against the Chinese, and the position then became desperate after six hours' fighting.

KAO LED FIGHT

Kao Tsai-ting then decided on a counter-attack with the bayonet, into which he led the first, second, eleventh and twelfth companies. Doubling through the enemy's fire brought the men into hand-to-hand conflict. The result was that the enemy was driven back and retreated to the hills, 15 miles distant, followed by the Chinese cavalry. The latter established contact with the enemy near Maotuching. When the report was despatched the fighting had lasted eight hours, and both sides had suffered severely.

In this "second battle"—the report does not mention the first, which apparently occurred on the 24th—Kao Tsai-ting reports that the Chinese suffered one captain killed, five lieutenants wounded, and 70 other ranks killed and wounded. The enemy lost several hundreds.

RECOMMENDS REWARD

In view of the severe fighting and hardships, Kao Tsai-ting recommends that the troops should be rewarded, and the Government has appropriated $5,000 for this purpose.

Kao explains that he believes the enemy is strongly supported from the rear. He therefore asks for reinforcements, which are being sent from Kalgan and other points.

A telegram from the Urga Chamber of Commerce states that members of the Chamber who were eyewitnesses of the battle saw "the subjects of a certain power directing the operations from Urga, while other nations of the same Powers were discovered among the killed and wounded." The Chamber asks the Government to take up the matter.

The Chinese are sending aeroplanes to Urga. The Russians at Urga abandoned two guns, numerous horses and much material.

American Club Elects Officers

Dr. W. T. Findley, Mr. R. H. Parker and Mr. W. A. Adams were re-elected respectively president, vice president and secretary of the American Club at the annual general meeting held last evening. The following committee was elected: Messrs. Arthur Bassett, J. Harold Dollar, W. S. Fleming, G. M. Jackson, F. V. Reilly and J. S. Dolan.

Old Moon Totally Eclipsed

But Crackers And Crowds Aid Staging Of Comeback

Renegade Orb Loses Again

As predicted by THE CHINA PRESS, there was an eclipse of the moon last night.

The reporter sent out to cover the event hopes that there will not be another eclipse for some time—or, if they have to have another one within the next few years, that the parties who have such matters in charge will arrange to have it coincide with the Fourth of July or the Quatorze Juillet, or some other date on which cannon firecrackers, brass bands and oratory are unavoidable, anyway.

It was a tough job to pull Mlle. Diana through but Shanghai sat up with the lady and rendered enthusiastic aid until the danger point was past.

Evidently the fact that the old familiar orb was to hook up for a sort of "Kilkenny Cats" engagement with a "wild moon" had been widely circularised among the Chinese populace, for when the gnawing process began and the shadow had bitten its first semi-circular chunk out of the southeast corner of our friend, large mass meetings of protesting citizens, who had foregathered in all parts of the settlement and environs, started in to make their disapproval obvious. This was at about 7:25 p.m. and during the next two hours, while the Fire Department sat nervously waiting for the word that the town was ablaze in several hundred different localities, practically all of last season's output of double-barrelled bombs and firecrackers was totally ruined.

At 9:30 things looked pretty dark for the favorite and her backers evidently got a bit discouraged, as there was a lull in the firing which lasted until 11 o'clock, or thereabouts, when the first faint signs of a recovery appeared, simultaneously with another lavish expenditure of gunpowder, a grand flutter on the gongs and much burning of joss paper and red candles.

From then on the end was never in doubt and when the office astronomer walked homeward somewhat later on in the evening he glanced over his shoulder and thought to himself, thought he, "Ain't it a darned shame that the weather isn't about 20 degrees milder, with a nice quiet park nearby and a small park bench and somebody to convince of the fact that there's SOME moon!"

Speaking in a more matter of fact way, last night's phenomenon was one of unusually striking nature. Occurring during the early hours of the evening and on a beautifully clear night it was a sight to be seen if not written about.

LOCAL CHAMBER TO SEEK U.S. AID FOR TRADE LAW

Will Send 5,000 Copies Of Press Article Throughout Country

In pamphlet form, some 5,000 copies of the article appearing in last Sunday's THE CHINA PRESS regarding the federal incorporation act which is to come before the American House of Representatives in December, will be distributed throughout the United States by the Shanghai American Chamber of Commerce. The pamphlets will go to congressmen, prominent business men—particularly those interested in foreign trade—and to commercial organisations all over the country.

The pamphlets are to be sent out immediately by Mr. W. A. Chapman, secretary of the Chamber, in order that the long hoped for legislation, which would put American firms on an equal footing with other foreign firms in China by relieving them from the income tax, may be brought prominently up for consideration by the home circle of influence.

The bill, promulgated through the efforts of the Shanghai American Chamber of Commerce and the American Association, was introduced in the House by Congressman Dyer in July of last year and has been in the hands of the Committee on Judiciary since. It has already won the support of many influential trade bodies in the States and also that of a number of government officials, largely by reason of the active agitation carried on by Shanghai business men in its interests.

BOLSHEVIKI IN POSSESSION OF PALACE OF AMIR

(Reuter's Service)

Bombay, October 25.—The envoys of the Bolsheviks, who recently established themselves at Bokhara, have taken over the Amir's palace.

While the Bolsheviks were moving the Amir's supplies of munitions from the palace, an explosion occurred, causing many casualties. The Amir is reported to have fled to Afghanistan.

Mexicans Declare U.S. Ship Board Is Behind Oil Plans

(Reuter's Service)

Mexico City, October 25.—Charges that the United States Shipping Board is indirectly interested in an application now before the petroleum department for permission to build an oil aqueduct across the Isthmus of Tehuantepec, for the purpose of securing ready supplies of oil for the United States Pacific Fleet, are formulated in an article in the Excelsior described as "A voice of alarm, calling upon the Mexican Government to beware."

Hospitals Are Filled With Wounded Following Raid On Mu

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Canton, Oct. 26.—The hospitals are full of wounded from the East River districts.

An airplane yesterday dropped explosives on the Kwangsi Army headquarters, with the object of intimidating General Mu Yung-hsien.

It is believed that Peking will complicate the situation here by appointing to the Tuchunship a Cantonese, friendly to the Kwangsi militarists.

France Gets Flags Taken By Germans In War Of 1870

KIANGSU TUCHUN LEFT $20,000 TO NANKING SCHOOLS

(Reuter's Service)

Nanking, Oct. 26.—The sum of $20,000 has been left by the late Tuchun, General Li Shun, to the nine missionary and eleven government and private schools in Nanking.

Dr. A. J. Brown, president of the University of Nanking, today received a check for $10,000 for the missionary schools from Mr. Wu Chiachi, commissioner of education, who stated that the amount had been given by Mr. Li Kwei-shan, as directed by the late Tuchun, his brother, and left to the University of Nanking, Ginling College, Christian Boys School, Conference Academy, Presbyterian Girls School, Chen Mei School, Christian Girls School, Methodist Girls' School and the Y.M.C.A. School.

The other $10,000 is being forwarded to the Government and private schools.

JAPAN TO TAKE U.S. LAND BILL BEFORE LEAGUE

Gato Says Adoption Of California Act Will Be An Insult

URGES COMPROMISE

Says Enactment Of Law Would Probably Become World Matter

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 26.—In an article on the California question, communicated to the correspondent of the Chicago Tribune, Baron Goto warns Americans that the dispute may become a world question because, if the Federal Government permit the anti-alien legislation to come into effect without taking steps to counteract it, Japan is in honor bound to refer the matter to the League of Nations or to some International Court.

He says that Japan is willing further to check immigration into America and is willing to meet America more than half-way, should the gradual elimination of the Japanese population of California be desired, but she is not willing to stand by and see "a reckless minority persecute unfortunate immigrants who are denied the privilege of citizenship."

CONSEQUENCES GREAT

"Japan will be disappointed," Baron Goto continues, "if the American majority, who do not approve of the agitation, permits betrayal by the minority instead of adopting the happier solutions already suggested."

He reminds America that, "while the material interests directly involved are small, yet the moral and psychological consequences are great and far-reaching." "The temper of the whole world, will be directly or indirectly affected," Baron Goto declares, "if the affair reached the League of Nations, turning friendship into hatred, confidence into cynicism, kindling a spirit of reaction everywhere and possibly unbalancing whatever equilibrium for peace is left in a disintegrating and disillusioned world.

ACT OF VIOLENCE

Should Japan's amicable suggestions be rejected, Japan must regard it as an insult and almost an act of violence in which Japan would never acquiesce. We will refrain from meeting force by force," Baron Goto concluded, "I for one will do my best to persuade the Japanese to control their temper but I cannot submit to injustice and must acquaint our people and the world that the moral principle, on which depends the peace of the world, is challenged and is left undecided."

Osaka, Oct. 27.—Over 5,000 women, who held a Convention here, on Monday last, despatched a cable to the Japanese Society at San Francisco, urging them to exert their efforts to effect a settlement of the present difficulties, which "are hindering the cause of justice and humanity."

KING OF GREECE IS DEAD; YOUTH OF 18 IS HEIR

Bite Of Pet Monkey Is Cause Of Demise Of Alexander

FUNERAL IS TOMORROW

Prince Paul, Brother Of Late Monarch, Will Be Given Throne

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 26.—King Alexander of Greece has died. The news was known at Athens about five o'clock yesterday evening.

London, Oct. 26.—According to the Athens correspondent of the Times, the funeral of the late King has been fixed for October 29. The body will be conveyed to the Cathedral in Athens tomorrow, where it will lie in state.

SELECT REGENT

M. Venizelos has made the statement that Prince Paul, brother of the late monarch, and 18 years of age, would succeed to the throne. Prince Paul, he added, was at present absent from Greece. Consequently the Cabinet would act as a Council of Regency, pending his acceptance of the crown.

Athens, October 25.—The dissolved Parliament will be convoked as speedily as possible for the election as Regent of Admiral Coundouriotis. His election is a foregone conclusion. The elections for the National Assembly will possibly be postponed for a week.

WAS 27 YEARS OLD

The late King Alexander was born on July 30, 1893. He was the second son of former King Constantine and Queen Sophie, a Prussian princess.

During the war King Constantine and his eldest son took such an unpopular attitude that the King was compelled by the people to abdicate. His eldest son was not acceptable as his successor and the throne fell to Alexander.

The King was bitten by a pet monkey several weeks ago and became violently ill. Specialists were summoned from Paris to attend him but were unable to save his life.

Fayolle Tells Of U. S. Enthusiasm

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 26.—"I was received everywhere in America with an enthusiasm of which we have no idea in France," said General Fayolle, giving his impressions of his recent visit to the United States.

"From the time of my crossing to America, which I made in the company of the Knights of Columbus, until my return, my visit was one perpetual ovation. France is dearly loved over there, where the memories of the War of Independence have been revived by those of the last campaign."

Conferences Cause Belief Coal Strike Nears End

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 25.—The negotiations with a view to the settlement of the coal strike are proceeding hopefully.

A conference, lasting an hour was held this morning between the Prime Minister, Sir Robert Horne, Mr. Bonar Law, Mr. W. C. Bridgeman, Secretary for Mines, and Mr. Duncan Coal Controller, as representing the Government, and representatives of the coal owners.

This followed by a meeting of miners' representatives with the Prime Minister at Downing Street, which occupied nearly two hours, and after which the delegates proceeded to consult the executive of the Miners' Federation.

Mr. Brace, M.P., stated that the miners' representatives would meet the Premier again at 8 o'clock this evening.

NO TRIBUNAL NEEDED

The only official statement hitherto forthcoming is that made by Mr. Lloyd George in the House of Commons this afternoon, when he said he hoped that the negotiations would avert the necessity for establishing a tribunal to inquire into the best means of increasing the coal production.

It is stated unofficially, however, that the coal owners have assured the Government they are ready to co-operate fully in increasing the output, while the miners have announced their willingness to do their best to reduce absenteeism.

They further stipulate that, if the output is materially increased, their wages shall rise beyond the 2s. per shift which they claim.

It is understood that a proposal which now finds favor is that, subject to these conditions, the 2s. increase shall be granted immediately.

EXPECT INCREASE AT ONCE

It is noteworthy that the Miners' Executive is empowered to call off the strike if the Government submits acceptable suggestions. Thus there will be no necessity for a ballot of the men before the resumption of work.

London, Oct. 25.—The Miners' Executive, after considering the result of the leaders' conference with Mr. Lloyd George tonight, adjourned until tomorrow morning. Mr. Frank Hodges, the Secretary, stated that up to the present nothing had happened to cause the discontinuance of the conversations with the Government.

London, October 25.—All racing this week, including the Cambridgeshire Stakes, has been abandoned owing to the coal-strike.

Czecho-Slovak Anniversary Being Observed Here Today

Second Year Since Founding Of New Republic Has Seen Much Progress And Many Changes

Shanghai's little colony of Czecho-Slovaks is today celebrating the second anniversary of the founding of the Republic, though no formal program of exercises has been arranged for the observance.

Within the two years since the infant Republic was brought into being by the Peace Treaty of Versailles it has set about to effect an ambitious national development under the administration of its first executive, President T. C. Masaryk, who was elected to serve for life.

INDUSTRIES CHANGED

Particular stress was placed upon commercial and economic development and one of the first steps that reflected the national purpose was an industrial transformation brought about when factories of the country ceased the manufacture of arms and munitions and began to produce agricultural tools and the implements.

In negotiations with the Italian Government the Czecho-Slovak Republic obtained a lease that gave the country an outlet to the Adriatic through the former great Austrian port of Trieste. Following this, direct express and cargo train service between Prague and Trieste was established and the port in Trieste already has assumed a great commercial importance to the new Republic, supplying as it does commercial connection with the Near and Far East.

PORT AT HAMBURG

By the terms of the Treaty of Peace a part of the harbor of Hamburg was obtained by Czecho-Slovakia and the internationalisation of the River Elbe has enabled the Czecho-Slovak Government to maintain direct connection between Hamburg and the city of Melnik in Bohemia. It is believed that the Czecho-Slovak Government will establish a port at Hamburg and at Trieste.

Another channel of commercial communication that has been opened up by Czecho-Slovakia is through the newly established river port of Bratislava in the Province of Slovakia on the River Danube. Through this port shipping service is being maintained between Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Rumania.

Aerial service between Prague and Paris now has been in operation for several months.

COLLEGE WOMEN PLAN AID FOR FAMINE REGIONS

Organisation Here To Collect Clothing And Money For Sufferers

Measures to give aid in relieving the famine were discussed at a business meeting of the Woman's College Club that was held at the home of Mrs. Davis at West Gate Tuesday afternoon. Members of the club decided to sew baby garments and collect clothing, as well as receive contributions.

It was arranged to install a box at Messrs. Squires, Bingham Company's where offerings will be received and the clothing given will be fashioned into garments at a meeting to be held the afternoon of November 30 at the home of Mrs. Benjamin.

The Woman's College Club already has set in motion plans for a Christmas program of a musical nature that will be under the direction of Mrs. Cavanagh. Miss Mayling Soong presided at Tuesday's meeting. Due to the absence in America of Mrs. F. J. Raven and Mrs. Pulver Mrs. Benjamin has been appointed hospitality chairman and Mrs. Emma Lester of the McTyeire School, membership chairman.

Relief Starts In S.E. Chihli

The following reports on the state of the famine in the Vicariate Apostolic of Southeast Chihli has been received by the Luzarist Procurate here:

The Vicariate Apostolic of Southeast Chihli comprises 39 sub-prefectures.

WARD & COMPANY, TOBACCO CONCERN LAUNCHED HERE

Firm With Capitalisation Of Tls. 250,000 Is Listed In U. S. Court

Incorporation articles were filed yesterday in the United States Court for China by George K. Ward and Company, which is a newly established tobacco company which is to have headquarters in Shanghai.

The new company is captialised at Tls. 250,000 divided into 2,500 shares of a par value of Tls. 100 each. Of these 2,500 shares, 1,500 will be preferred stock and 1,000 common. It is provided that Tls. 110,000 will be paid in for stock before the company begins active business.

The incorporators of the company, who also form the first board of directors, are Messrs. George K. Ward, David R. Smith, Roger S. Mills and Roland S. Haskell.

The company is to carry a general business in the manufacture, sale and distribution of tobacco in all forms.

Polish-Danzig Compromise Is Being Discussed

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 26.—The conference of ambassadors, which met yesterday morning under the Presidency of M. Jules Cambon, had before it a report on the dispute which has arisen between the Danzig representatives and the Polish delegates.

According to the Petit Parisien, the Inter-Allied Commission, charged with preparing a compromise scheme, has temporarily suspended its sittings but will resume them shortly, if the attitude of the Ambassadors' Conference permits the conclusion that the difference will be settled so as to satisfy Polish aspirations.

IRISH IN RIOT WHEN NEWS OF CORK MAYOR IS RECEIVED

Reprisals Renewed After Passing Of City's Executive

TALE OF TRAGEDY

Home Office Denies Food Forced On Prisoner Was Cause

TAKE BODY HOME

Grave Will Be Beside That Of Predecessor Who Was Shot

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 26.—The Belfast correspondent of the Associated Press states that Sinn Fein flags hoisted in honor of Mr. MacSwiney caused rioting in the suburbs yesterday in which one man was killed.

London, October 25.—A hundred men, armed and disguised, ambushed a police patrol of nine men in County Sligo today. Three policemen were killed and three wounded.

Paris, October 26.—"The Lord Mayor of Cork breathed his last," writes the Oeuvre, "just as his confessor was concluding the prayer for the dead. His voluntary fast lasted 73 days 2 hours 40 minutes. The body will be conveyed to Cork where the funeral will take place."

CORK JAIL GUARDED

New York, October 26.—The Cork correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs that feverish interest is being shown there with regard to possible developments on account of the death of Mr. MacSwiney. The people of the South of Ireland are plunged in grief and stirred to the highest bitterness so that an outbreak is extremely probable.

Disorderly demonstrations are expected by the constabulary and an extension and intensification of the guerilla warfare against the police and military, who have doubled their vigilance. The jail is guarded inside and outside by soldiers with machine-guns, tanks and armored cars.

New York, October 26.—De Valera, the so-called "President of the Irish Republic," will speak on Sunday at the Polo Grounds on the subject of Mr. MacSwiney.

UNCONSCIOUS 36 HOURS

New York, October 26.—The London correspondent of the Associated Press telegraphs: Lord Mayor Terence MacSwiney was unconscious for 36 hours previous to his death which occurred at four o'clock yesterday morning. Father Dominic, his private chaplain, and his brother, Mr. John MacSwiney, were at his bedside until the end.

The Lord Mayor's brother asked for the privilege of communicating with other relatives but this was refused. He and the chaplain were not permitted to leave the prison until 6:15 when the former immediately conveyed word to the widow, who accompanied the Lord Mayor's parents and Mrs. Mary MacSwiney to the prison. The news was not known outside the prison until after 9 when small knots of people began moving towards Brixton, where they were stopped by the police and not allowed passage to the street leading to the prison.

Fears had previously been expressed that the death of the Lord Mayor might cause demonstrations.

The body is to lie at Westminster Cathedral until taken to Dublin.

HEART FAILURE CAUSE

It was stated by the Home Office that death was due to heart failure, as an indirect answer to a declaration made by Dr. Hosiah Oldfield that the meat juice and brandy which the prison doctors administered acted as poison.

Mr. MacSwiney's grave will be alongside that of his official predecessor, Lord Mayor MacCurtain, who was shot in his own home at Cork. The funeral party will stop at all cities on the route from Dublin to Cork. The final obsequies will be held at Cork Cathedral.

The friends of Mr. MacSwiney who accompanied his widow to Brixton said that the Mayor's telegram of October 18 to the Cork hunger strikers, referring to Fitzgerald as having died for his country and joined the immortals, described his own end. The widow and Miss Mary MacSwiney entered the cell, kissed the cheek of the dead man and prayed for several moments.

London, October 25.—Immediately the news of the death of Mr. MacSwiney reached Cork. The city went into mourning. All public functions were adjourned and all places of amusement closed. No disorders have occurred up to the present.

As soon as the news was known in Dublin the military showed great activity. They raided the Mansion House, which they searched from top to bottom, whilst barbed-wire entanglements were thrown across the roads and vehicles were stopped and searched. The city is in a very excited state.

Before the military seized the Mansion House, the City flag which was flying over it, had been half-masted in token of mourning for the Lord Mayor of Cork.

There are signs of universal mourning both in Cork and Dublin and prayers for the repose of the Lord Mayor are being offered up in all the churches.

Little Entente Aims Explained To French

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 26.—The French press understands that the session of the Council of the League of Nations will not be held until Thursday morning.

Paris, October 26.—The French League of Nations Society held a great meeting yesterday evening at the Sorbonne under the Presidency of M. Appell, the rector of the Paris Academy, at which M. Raymond Poincare and General Dubail were present.

M. Take Jonescu, the Rumanian Minister for Foreign Affairs, explained the role of the "Little Entente" in new Europe. "We have formed this group," he declared, "to prevent the enemy from retaking by intrigue what he has lost by arms." M. Jonescu emphasised his absolute faith in the League of Nations.

MILLIONS SPENT ON WAR LORDS' EXTRA FORCES

(Reuter's Service)

Tientsin, Oct. 27.—The vernacular papers print full reports of the reorganisation of the Chihli and Fengtien armies, which are being largely increased, entailing large expenditure.

In this connection the Peking and Tientsin Times makes a strong attack against the Government and northern Tuchuns. It says Tsao Kun's army reorganisation alone will cost the Central Government three millions, and Chihli Province two millions. The Provincial Assembly was never consulted, and is known to be bitterly opposed to these contributions. It is presumed that Chang Tso-lin's reorganisation will cost at least a further five millions yet the Premier admits that the national Treasury shows a deficit of eight millions monthly.

The raising of large additional forces at the expense of a bankrupt Government and poverty-stricken people is a curious way of fulfilling the pledges made after the victory over the Anfuites, and is an affront to friendly nations and an outrage on the Chinese people. The educated Chinese are partly responsible, since they have contributed by their passivity and failure to make a united protest."

KOREA WORKER AT JAP ARSENAL CACHES BOMBS

Graduate Of Nipponese Army School Trains Rebels On Border

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tokio, October 26.—The newspapers report that 200 bombs and 10 detonators have been discovered amongst the effects of Ei Shukon, a Korean workman at the Hiroshima Naval Arsenal, who has fled to Kyushu. The police say that explosives have frequently been missed and have subsequently been found in the Korean quarters.

A Korean informer, it is stated, has told the police that Li-Sei-tei, a graduate of the Japanese Military Academy, has established a military school in the Korean border region and is training a hundred officers for the "malcontents'" forces. The police also say that they have discovered the existence of a gang of Koreans at Shimonoseki, who, while ostensibly shop assistants, are collecting metals, arms and explosives to send to Korea.

SAITO IN STATEMENT

The newspapers quote Baron Saito, the Governor-General of Korea, as saying that the Korean agitation dates from the announcement that there would be no discrimination between Japanese and Koreans. He declares that the improvement of conditions must be gradual. Referring to the border disturbances Baron Saito says that they are only temporary but that the measures at present being taken to deal with them are totally inadequate.

A party of 20 Korean scholars are visiting Tokio and are being welcomed and entertained by Japanese scholars. In the meanwhile guerilla warfare is still being carried on. A Japanese detachment dispersed 1,000 outlaws in the mountains near Yuiaotsun on October 22. The Japanese had three killed and 11 wounded. The outlaws losses are thought to have been heavy and 1,200 rounds of ammunition were captured.

Gendarmes routed a band of outlaws at Chiaohokou on October 24, killing ten, and various other encounters are reported generally with a number of casualties to the outlaws.

Japanese Seeking Control Of Siberia South Of Amur; Close Door To Vladivostok

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Vladvostok, October 26.—The Assembly and the Cabinet are holding daily sessions.

The feeling prevails here that the Verkhne-Udinsk and Amur troops are responsible for the Zabaikal incident. All the papers except the Communist organs express the fear that another upheaval is unavoidable.

Delegates from Vladivostok are leaving for Chita to make a final effort to prevent bloodshed and to join up the country.

The Japanese authorities state that the Japanese mission at Chita is safe and is in daily communication with Vladivostok.

(China Press Correspondence)

Vladivostok, October 23.—Japanese military officials are daily making their influence more powerful here and high-handed interference with local governmental administration points toward the gradual turning over of this port to Japanese. The door to Siberia is practically closed to foreign business men other than Japanese for goods sent to Vladivostok by firms of other nationality are certain to be damaged or stolen.

BRING IN MORE TROOPS

The Japanese military and secret service authorities are practically in charge of this port and a change of government is daily anticipated, the new regime to have both the sanction and protection of the Japanese.

According to a high official of the present provisional government, the Japanese are sending 1,500 troops into Siberia for every 500 that are leaving the country. He said:

"General Ohi made open declaration of withdrawal of Japanese troops from Siberia. Statistics of actual count show that there are 70,000 Japanese troops in Pri-Amur region, mainly at or near Harbarvosk, not including the Japanese troops now in Saghalien and Kamchatka.

"The Japanese in their withdrawal are planning a coup which will place all of Siberia south of the Amur river in their control as for every 500 soldiers now evacuating they are bringing in 1,500, which really amounts to no evacuation at all. It is thought this may not be known to the Allied Government.

SITUATION IN VLADIVOSTOK

"Government officials of the Provincial Government are in fear of their lives. For example: The assassin of one Andreef was captured at Nikolsk Urrisk by Russian secret service men and three hours after his capture the Japanese command in that city compelled the local Russians to release him.

"In the numerous arrests of the reactionary leaders by the Provisional Government officials the parties arrested have produced certificates that they are in the employ of the Japanese Secret Service, which policy on the part of the Japanese Military is aimed to create deathly fear in all officials of the Provisional Government and through this fear of their life compel them to indirectly but forcefully carry out all wishes of the Japanese Military.

COMMERCIAL INFORMATION

"The Law Courts and Customs Houses employes from the Chief down are the same as in the regime of the Czar. Bold robberies and losses occuring in the Customs are stiffling all foreign trade. When the Chief of the Customs was arrested recently by the Provisional Government, his release was immediately secured by the Japanese command.

"All Japanese imports, strange to say, are not molested in the Customs, while other foreign imports are damaged and stolen. The Judges of the Court in Vladivostok are also under Japanese military protection, therefore no legal redress can be obtained.

"In the case of the robbery of the American and British Consuls recently, when the Provisional Government's military was proceeding to the village where they were informed that the robbers were concealed, they were stopped by the Japanese military and not allowed to proceed, thereby making the police of this Government a farce in the eyes of the world.

"Whenever an arrest is made any members of the reactionary monarchistic forces they instantly produce Japanese Secret Service Certificates, and, being quartered in the Japanese Secret Service headquarters—the local authorities are absolutely powerless—even to govern or control their own nationals."

It will be remembered that after the overthrow of Kolchak that some 150 reactionaries were given protection by the Japanese military authorities here, having been harbored at the Japanese general staff headquarters. Many of them were taken to Japan in a Japanese transport.

Two Firemen Hurt In Hankow Blaze

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Hankow, October 26.—A fire broke out today at the back of the French Concession and large block of Chinese tenements was burned. The damage is estimated at present at over a lakh. Two foreign firemen were slightly injured. The insurance, covering the premises burned, is known to be considerable.

Ten Million Japan Householders To Back New Institute

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, October 27.—Several members of the Faculty of the Imperial University are visiting Fukuoka, where they are planning the establishment of a "People's Institute," in which scientific studies will be carried out, independent of Government support.

The Professors propose to secure Yen 10,000,000 from 10,000,000 householders throughout Japan, who will be asked to contribute 1 Yen each.

KIUCHI TRIAL ENDS

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Kyoto, Oct. 27.—The public trial of Mr. Kiuchi, ex-Governor of Kyoto, has terminated. The sentence will be promulgated on November 30.

"That's a nice property of Smiths! It's worth something today!"

"I wonder what he paid for it 10 years ago—and what it is worth today?"

The answer to those questions is the answer to the question: "Is REAL ESTATE A GOOD, SAFE INVESTMENT?"

There is every reason to suppose that the same appreciation of land values which has taken place during the last decade will take place in the next.

The Foundations Of Your Home

are your first care, are they not? Shallow, badly constructed foundations result in the appearance of damp, cracks and other unpleasant symptoms after you have taken possession and are comfortably installed in a new home.

HOW ABOUT THE FLOORS

And the interior woodwork? Did you take the same care of them?

Cheap flooring is no economy, especially if you cover it up with expensive carpets. Both will wear out and need renewal—so will cheap panelling.

OAK FLOORING

and oaken interior woodwork is practically indestructible, and will outlast you and those who come after you. Furthermore, the cost of oak flooring is about the same as that of a high-class carpet—Tls. 25 to Tls. 40 per fong (100 sq. feet).

Insist that all lumber for flooring and panelling for interior work bears the "Three Pines" Trade Mark, and the letters "KD" signifying kiln-dried, thus ensuring its perfect quality, and suitability for the severe climatic conditions of China.

We give all orders personal attention. After you have placed your order with us, the flooring will be laid and all work carried out under the personal supervision of a foreign expert of the Company. We prefer to do this for you.

First Testimony Taken In Mack Bankruptcy Case

The bankruptcy proceedings in which Mr. A. C. Mack is principal opened yesterday before Mr. Skinner Turner as Acting Judge. Mr. A. E. Dickson appeared as official Receiver and Mr. N. Langley Smith for the petitioning creditor, Mr. G. J. W. Morgan.

In answer to the Official Receiver, Mr. Mack said his statement of affairs, showing unsecured creditors of Tls. 3,825.72 and $1,285.73, was correct. His total assets were $200, apart from a doubtful debt of Tls. 60,000.

The Court—That is a debt due to him?

Mr. Dickson—Yes.

His Lordship—If that eventuates into a sum of money you can clear this off very easily?

Witness—Yes.

In answer to Mr. Langley Smith, witness said he remembered an order being made by the Court for the sale of the property at No. 38 Tongshan Road. He only owned one-third of that property, the other shares being held by his mother and brother.

Q.—I put it to you it was only after proceedings were commenced and you realised you would be indebted to Mr. Morgan that you got rid of part of the property. A.—no. The first time the case was up it was stated in my evidence. That was before the judgment summons.

HOUSE WAS SHARED

Continuing witness said the house had been shared between the three of them since it was built, six or seven years before the case came on. The title deeds proved that. He held no other property in Shanghai.

Q.—The title deeds can be registered in any one's name?

A.—I have no other evidence.

He only owned a share of the furniture in the house. It was not correct to say the whole of the furniture belonged to him.

Q.—Your mother was wrong in telling the Marshal of the Court that it belonged to you? A.—Yes, she was afraid. She cannot read or write.

He was now living at No. 33 Sinza Road. He had the bed room furniture there. He did not know what had happened to the rest of the furniture. He had been employed with Moutrie's for 19 years. In 1919 his salary was $220 and commission which varied from $100 to $400 per month. There was a piano in the house, the selling price of which was $750.

SHARES PURCHASES

He remembered instructing Mr. Morgan to make share purchases for his account. He made many statements to Mr. Morgan about his financial position. He gave Mr. Morgan to understand, long before the Settlement, that he would be able to take up the shares purchased for his account. He told him he had certain securities—that his people would be willing to help him, that he had a gold draft for G.$8,000, and the Tongshan Road property. He could not remember mentioning any other securities. He could not have said he had Anglo-Java shares. He had seven Telephone shares which he delivered up. Three weeks before the Settlement in December, 1918, there was a loss of Tls. 7,000, but two days later the shares dropped another Tls. 10,000, which made the total Tls. 17,000. He told his broker he was not in a position to meet these losses unless he accepted the securities. Witness asked him to approach the creditors and see if they could give him three months in which to pay. The very high rate of 39 percent interest was suggested. The broker said "No, they want cash." Witness offered them gilt-edged securities worth three times Tls. 17,000.

Q.—It would be quite incorrect for Mr. Morgan to say he does not remember your ever having offered these securities? A.—I swear it.

WORKS ON SALARY

Q.—That the only offer you ever made was a very low offer of cash?

A.—It is quite incorrect.

In conclusion, witness said he was now an employe of the Purity Candy Store, receiving $100 a month. He had no interest whatever in the business. Mr. Jovino, one of the partners, was his brother-in-law. He had no interest whatever in any property in Shanghai. He was quite sure of that. He had given no instructions to have a house built in Shanghai.

In answer to His Lordship witness said the judgment was for Tls. 16,000; Tls. 13,700 had been paid.

His Lordship—If brokers will take instructions for large amounts of this kind from people earning small salaries they must expect to be "stung" sometimes. I did not try the case but I have an outside knowledge of it.

In answer to Mr. Dickson, witness said he made two proposals to the creditors yesterday which were refused. A broker had run away with Tls. 60,000 hard cash of his.

The examination was adjourned sine die.

Chloric Gas Is New Influenza Safeguard

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Osaka, Oct. 27.—An expert, belonging to the Osaka Municipal Sanitary Laboratory, announces that the inhalation of chloric gas is an effective preventive against Spanish influenza.

His attention was aroused in the first instance by the fact that people working in factories, making bleaching powder, suffered very little from influenza and he discovered that this was due to inhalation of chloric gas from the evaporating bleaching powder.

CHINESE PIECE GOODS DEALERS IN CO-OPERATION

Will Unite In Effort To Prevent Panic Threatened By Exchange

A meeting of representatives of the 500 Chinese piece-goods dealers of Shanghai will be held shortly to plan co-operative measures by which they may avert the panic threatened by the series of drops in exchange. Foreign importers will act individually, it was learned yesterday afternoon, although united action was proposed.

Some 325 Chinese dealers are represented in the Importers Exchange Maintenance Association and the Tsung Hwa Dong while smaller dealers, although unorganised, will send representatives to the meeting planned.

According to Chinese dealers Sir Everard Fraser, the British Consul General to whom an appeal was made for aid, has replied that the British commercial attache recommends direct negotiation with the British Chamber of Commerce.

Harrison Fights Imports Of Liquor Into Philippines

Governor-General Urges Prohibition Of Consular Invoices For Intoxicants

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Manila, Oct. 27.—In a special message to the Philippine Legislature, Governor General Francis Burton Harrison recommends that instructions be sent to United States Consulates throughout the world prohibiting the certification of consular invoices for shipments of intoxicating liquors to the Philippine Islands if they are to be used for beverage purposes. If the Legislature acts on the Governor's recommendation, the new regulation is planned to take effect in July.

The Consuls-General for France and Spain will oppose the measure but consular officials representing other nations are of the opinion that such a measure, if passed could only apply to exports from the United States.

Port Elizabeth Is Quiet After Riots

Bolshevists Are Blamed For Causing Uprising Of Colored People

(Reuter's Service)

Port Elizabeth, October 25.—The natives concerned in the riots belong to an organisation of a pernicious character which has been outspokenly condemned by responsible native opinion.

(Later)

The city is now quiet, and most of the natives are apparently back at work. A strong force of armed police is stationed at important points. An anxious feature of the situation is that the natives declare they will strike on November 1.

London, October 26.—The South African newspapers point out that the native unrest which has culminated in the rioting at Port Elizabeth is largely attributable to Bolshevik propaganda among the natives. The organ of the Communist party has been urging the organisation of the natives and colored people so as to co-operate with the white workers to seize the powers of government, and defend their conquests by force.

America Agrees To Customs Surcharge

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, Oct. 27.—The United States Government has officially informed China that it has agreed to the increase of the customs revenue for the benefit of the famine relief work.

The British Foreign Office, while sympathetic with the proposal, has referred the matter to the board of trade.

REPORTS ARMED ROBBERY

At 2:30 a.m. yesterday a coolie employed at the Yangtszepoo dock reported to the Yangtszepoo police that he had been held up while riding on a ricsha along Ward Road an hour earlier by three men, one of whom was armed with a knife. Money and a watch were taken from him, he said, the total value being $7. There were some discrepancies in his story. The police are investigating.

'Unknown Warrior' To Be Buried On Armistice Day

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 25.—A feature of the Armistice Day celebrations on November 11 in London this year will be the burial of an "unknown British warrior" in Westminster Abbey, and preparations are being made to deal with the enormous crowds which are desirous of partaking in the impressive ceremony.

The body of the "unknown warrior," who died in the early part of the war, will be brought from the British battlefields in France in a simple coffin, specially made for the purpose, and will be carried to the Abbey on a gun-carriage, covered with national flags. It will be placed in the grave with pomp and ceremony befitting the great ones of the earth. Field-Marshals, Generals and Admirals will act as pall-bearers.

The King, the Royal Princes, the members of the Cabinet, and representatives of the Army and Navy will march in the procession to the Abbey through the streets of London. Military bands will play funeral marches, and the bells of the Abbey will ring a muffled peal.

When the Abbey is reached, the burial service will be held, and the coffin placed in the grave which will be filled with soil taken from the "unknown's" resting-place in France. The Abbey will then be opened to the general public, which will be allowed to file past the grave to pay homage to the "glorious dead."

On the way to the Abbey, the Cenotaph in Whitehall will be unveiled by the King precisely at 11 o'clock in the morning, when there will be a two minutes' silence in honor of the dead.

His Majesty will enter the Abbey on foot behind the gun-carriage as chief mourner, representing the Nation and the Empire.

A PRESENT FROM NATURE

Moreover, what is Nature? It is that from which all creation springs. When things lose this Principle they die: when they receive it they are born. If men, in acting, run counter to it, they fail, if they comply with it, they succeed. Wherefore drop your silly prejudices and turn to Nature. From among its lofty mountains, covered with eternal snow, it offers you its product:—A TIBETAN FOX SKIN. Send $25.—(Chinese Post Office Money Order) to MR. GERMAN PRESS SEEKS TO DODGE TREATY PROMISES

Figures Are Juggled To Show Why Losers Are Unable To Pay

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, October 24.—The German semi-official press is still relentlessly attempting to find all sorts of reasons for Germany to dodge the peace treaty stipulations. The ex-Minister, Herr Dernberg, now contends in a Berlin paper that France has lost only eight percent of her pre-war aggregate wealth against Germany's 60 percent the obvious conclusion being that Germany cannot possibly meet her obligations. Another erroneous contention of the German papers is that France is now overflowing with coal, whereas German industry is dying from lack of fuel.

The latest French official statistics conclusively show however, that French stocks of coal are now at least 50 percent below the level of September, 1913. The fact is that the present crisis in German industry is to be ascribed to the exorbitant prices asked for goods for export to certain countries, as a means—a rather questionable one—of checking the steady slump in German currency.

Britain Will Not Seize Property Of German Nationals

(Reuter's Service)

London, October 26.—It is officially announced that the Government has informed the German Government that they do not intend to exercise the rights by which, under the provisions of the Peace Treaty, the property of German nationals in the United Kingdom may be seized in the event of voluntary default by Germany.

This applies to German property in the United Kingdom or under the control of the British Government, whether this consists of bank balances, goods in British bottoms, or goods sent to England for sale.

Sunday School Union General Secretary Arrives On Nile

Dr. Frank L. Brown Here For Meetings Of Delegates To Be Held Nov. 7

Dr. Frank L. Brown, general secretary of the World Sunday School Union, and Mrs. Brown, arrived here on the Nile yesterday. Dr. and Mrs. Brown will remain in Shanghai for a short time and will proceed to Chinkiang, where they will be the guests of the Rev. D. F. Dodd of the Methodist Episcopal Mission.

This is Dr. Brown's seventh trip to China. He last visited Shanghai in 1913 when he passed through here on his way to the World Sunday School Convention in Zurich.

Dr. Brown will return to Shanghai from Chinkiang to address the Sunday School workers who will be in session here on November 7 and 8. Dr. and Mrs. Brown will then leave with the Sunday School delegation to hold conventions in India and Egypt.

Harding Charges Democrats Do Not Make Stand Clear

(Reuter's Service)

Marion, October 25.—Senator Harding, speaking here today, accused the Democratic Party of failure to place its policies clearly before the people. He said that he had asked for a statement but his opponents were nervous. Senator Harding added that he had made and restated his own position on the various issues, namely "extravagance," unpreparedness both in war and peace, unnecessary taxation, industrial policy, etc.

DR. LUTHER FREEMAN HERE

Dr. Luther Freeman, who is to be pastor of the newly organised Community Church which has succeeded the American Song Service, and Mrs. Freeman were among the passengers who arrived yesterday on the steamer Nile of the China Mail.

The Nile docked at the China Merchants' Central Wharf at 11 o'clock yesterday morning and will be despatched for Hongkong direct at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning. The ship brought 105 passengers for Shanghai.

ASK YOURSELF THIS QUESTION

Your Happiness Depends Largely Upon The Answer

Are you feeling as well and looking as young just now as you should do? If not, why not? You are just as old as you feel, and your feelings and looks depend largely upon the condition of your blood.

If the blood is rich and red it feeds the brain, nerves and muscles, keeping them fresh, flexible and vigorous. If the blood is poor, watery, and filled with poisonous acids, the whole system speedily falls into an unhealthy condition, the face becomes thin and haggard, symptoms of age become apparent when you still should be feeling young.

"What is the secret of good blood?" you ask. "How am I to restore health to my blood, and thus to my body, when I am feeling ailing and weary and old before my time?" Tens of thousands of people, not in this country only but throughout the world, will tell you that they have found this secret in Dr. Williams' pink pills, the renowned blood and nerve tonic.

For over thirty years, by their direct and powerful action on the whole system through the blood Dr. Williams' pink pills for pale people have been curing (often in the worst and apparently most hopeless cases where ordinary medicines have proved to no avail) anaemia, nervous breakdown, general weakness, indigestion, rheumatism, sciatica, neuralgia, partial paralysis, malaria, and the special ailments of women. They are obtainable from dealers everywhere, also direct from the Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., 96 Szechuen Road, Shanghai, at $1.50 the bottle, $8.00 for six bottles, post free.

If you are ill or ailing, or not so well as you would like to be, begin your own cure today. Delay where health is concerned is dangerous.

Blood Poisoning
Yet Another Grand Recovery

Our Portrait is of Mr. WILLIAM HARBORNE, of 6, Railway Road, Perry Bar, Birmingham, England, who writes:

"About two years ago I met with rather a bad accident. My arm was cut severely, and I had to have it stitched at the hospital. This caused me six weeks' absence from work, and after resuming my duties for one week I broke out all over my body with huge Boils. Again I went to the Hospital, and was treated for Blood Poisoning; this happened on three successive occasions, until I began to think I should never be cured. Then I gave Clarke's Blood Mixture a trial, and the first bottle or two seemed to be driving out the poison, so I persevered, and after taking ten bottles I was cured. It is now over twelve months since I left off taking your Clarke's Blood Mixture, and I have seen no signs of any further blood disorder."

CLARKE'S BLOOD MIXTURE, by reason of its remarkable blood purifying properties, can be relied upon to give speedy relief and lasting benefit in cases of Eczema, Bad Legs, Abscesses, Ulcers, Boils, Pimples, Eruptions, Piles, Glandular Swellings, Rheumatism, Sciatica, Gout. Pleasant to take and free from anything injurious.

ALL PREMIER AMERICAN FOOTBALL TEAMS GET DOWN TO HARD PRACTICE

Graham, Promising Candidate At Center For W. and J., Sustains Serious Injury; Secrecy Still Preserved At Cornell; Army Stops Rough Work

New Haven, Sept. 21.—Brilliant offensive work on the part of the Yale backs marked a hard forty minute scrimmage this afternoon by the Eli varsity, twenty minutes being spent in ripping up the line and the other twenty in showing the second varsity a thing or two in the way of an attack. Aldrich, Webb and Jordan did some great end skirting and plunging and two touchdowns were registered against the scrubs.

Jordan made one score on a line plunge from the 10-yard line and Aldrich the other on a run of thirty yards after he had interrupted a forward pass. The second period was against the second varsity and Webb scored on a plunge through the line.

Murphy ran the team today in place of Kempton and ran it well. He did some fine drop kicking in practice. After the first string backs showed what they could do, Crane, Campbell and French took their places and kept up the speedy work.

George Moseley, end on Black's champion 1916 team, joined the coaching staff today and will remain through the Harvard game.

W. & J. LOSES CENTER

Washington, Pa., Sept. 21.—The first serious accident of the year in the W. and J. football practice occurred today, when Graham, a promising candidate for center, hailing from Martin's Ferry, Ohio, sustained a fracture of leg bone in scrimmage and was placed on the shelf for the remainder of the season.

Graham was playing center on the second eleven against the varsity. In some way he was clipped from behind, and as he went down the bone snapped. He was carried from the field and given immediate surgical attention.

The fracture, while a simple one, is enough to keep him on crutches for weeks, with no hope that he will be of any value to the team.

Morrow will be forced to depend entirely on Loucks, former end, who has been worked at the central line position several times; Stereck, the former Pittsburg boy, who was the regular center on the S. A. T. C. team of 1918, and Werner, the sturdy Westerner.

HARVARD SCORES THRICE

Cambridge, Mass., Sept. 21.—Harvard varsity pounded the second team for three touchdowns this afternoon in the initial battle between the two squads. With the regular eleven in the line-up there was only one score, which was made by Kane after a pass from Johnson. When the substitutes were summoned two more touchdowns were counted, one of which was made by Churchill on a 75-yard run. Brown, another substitute back, was shoved across for the third one after his teammates had carried the ball 40 yards.

EIGHT FOR PENN

Philadelphia, Sept. 21.—At the end of a lively scrimmage today Penn's varsity squad had rolled up eight touchdowns on Ernie Cozzen's Red and Blue scrubs. The first tally was made by Bill Ward, the 210 varsity tackle, when he picked up a scrub fumble and ran twenty yards to the goal line.

Vic Frank, one of the veterans, suffered an injured leg early and had to retire. The feature of the drill was the flashy back field running of Rex Wray and Pos Miller. Capt. Hopper received word from Herb Dieter that the veteran guard, who is in New York, would be here tomorrow.

SECRECY AT CORNELL

Ithaca, Sept. 21.—Another secret practice, with absolutely every one barred from the field and stands, was the order of the day at Schoellkopf field this afternoon. Gilmour Dobie, the new coach, apparently is bent on maintaining a policy of secret drills throughout the fall. This will be radical departure in Cornell football policy.

Dobie lined up four teams and topped off the practice with a scrimmage. Although he has not picked his team, certain selections seem probable—that of Carey, last year's freshman captain and quarterback, as quarterback of the varsity, and of Mayer and possibly Davis as the varsity halfbacks.

ARMY STOPS ROUGH WORK

West Point, N. Y., Sept. 21.—The Army took things easy in its gridiron drill today. So strenuous has been the workouts of the last few days that the coaches called a halt to the rough work, and the men put in a couple of hours light drill this afternoon.

Groups of backs and ends ran signals and practised forward passes. The line men were drilled in charging and dummy scrimmaging and also went down under kicks. There were no real scrimmages. The men are beginning to fight for positions.

Strobecker, a "plebe," is attracting attention and is giving Greene, last year's varsity pivot man, a run for the position. The newcomer is big and husky, passes well and is fast. Stewart, a tackle, is one of the first to get on the injured list. He paced the side lines today with an injured shoulder, but is expected back in a day or two.

73 ON LEHIGH SQUAD

Bethlehem, Pa., Sept. 21.—Although only the day before the opening of college, there were seventy-three men out on Taylor Field at Lehigh today for a hard scrimmage.

CHAMPS MEET IN JANUARY AT NEW YORK, REPORT

(Reuter's Service)

Paris, Oct. 26.—It is reported that the boxing match between Georges Carpentier and Jack Dempsey will take place at New York at the beginning of January.

Honeyman Defeats Lee For Feather Belt

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 26.—In a 20-round boxing contest at the National Sporting Club last night, to decide the featherweight championship, Mike Honeyman beat Tancy Lee. In the 19th round Lee's towel was thrown in the ring.

Private Thompson Is High Score In Shoot

Member Of Shanghai Scottish Wins Municipal Challenge Cup

The competition for the Municipal Challenge Cup has been won this year by Private Thompson, of the Shanghai Scottish, with the score of 122 out of a possible 152 points. He is to be congratulated on his excellent shooting. Major Ransom and Sergt. Chen were second and third with scores of 120 points.

This year the competition was held in three stages, as follows:

First Stage.—200 and 300 yards, seven shots at each range, no sighters, S.V.C. 2nd Class Figure targets and scoring. The sixty highest scorers to qualify for the second stage.

Second Stage.—400 and 500 yards, seven shots at each range, no sighters. S.V.C. 2nd Class Figure target at 400 yards. 1st Class at 500 yards. The thirty highest scorers in first and second stages combined to qualify for third stage.

Third Stage.—600 yards, ten shots, no sighter. S.V.C. 1st Class Figure target. The highest aggregate score of the three stages to win the cup.

Call For Entries To Billiard League

Mr. R. Phillips, the energetic secretary of the local Amateur Billiards Association, announces that play will shortly commence in the annual League tournament and requests that entries (five men per team) may be sent to him forthwith, as it is desired to make up the card as soon as possible.

Ugly rumors had been heard that the League was likely to die a natural death. This would be a great pity, for clubs seem to increase yearly and billiards was never stronger in the Settlement than at the present time.

An old-timer, who has got a huge string of big breaks to his credit, a few nights ago was watching the play in the Masonic Club (which, by the way, should put in a very strong team this year if its best men do not elect to play for other clubs) and remarked that he doubted if there was a place in the world outside London where amateur billiards was of so high a standard as in Shanghai.

Breakfast Food

BY GEORGE A PHAIR

Once upon a time the theatrical stars had a monopoly on jewel robberies, but that was before the baseball stars had developed artistic temperament.

SERIAL

It was Wednesday night in Montreal. Joe Stecher and Wladek Zbyszko wrestled two hours to a draw.

(To Be Continued).

Baseball scribes, as well as athletes, sometimes pull unexpected plays. One of them came to bat with a vital series when we were all set for a crucial one.

JACK AND GEORGES

When the wide and stormy ocean
Rolled between these sturdy men
They were pulsing with the notion
Of a fistic battle—then.

Now we find them close together,
Almost meeting face to face,
And they talk about the weather
And the Presidential race.

Messrs. Dempsey and Carpentier remind one of a well-known beverage—so near and yet so far.

Moses Yellowhorse, having galloped into big league baseball, the scribes naturally will proceed to ride him.

"The way to beat Jack Dempsey," remarks Eddie Kane, "is to make him miss." Just like that.

ACHILLES

Achilles sulked within his tent
In days of long ago.
He was a foolish sort of gent;
His brow was hard and low.
But boxing champs have changed, somehow,
And you can see Achilles now
Exhibiting his slanting brow
In yonder movie show.

THE NEAR CHAMP

He was a vision of delight
A week or two ago.
They watched him training for the fight
And scanned his every blow.
They watched him jogging on the road,
They watched him in the ring,
And wondrous was the strength he showed
In every hook and swing.
They watched him knock his partners flat
Upon the padded floor,
And marveled as the canvas mat
Grew red with human gore.
And as his good right mit was sped
Against his partner's chin—
"That boy is there!" the experts said;
"He has a chance to win."
And when the day of battle came
He felt a fearful clout,
And, like a candle's flame
He straightway petered out.
And when the blow had laid him low
And put him in a trance,
The experts said: "I told you so.
He never had a chance!"

GAMBLING

"I never bet," the pitcher said,
"Upon a baseball strife,
But when I pitch to George H. Ruth
I gamble on my life."

VARDON-RAY VICTORS AT GARDEN CITY

British Golfers Defeat Dowling And McNamara By 3 Up And 1 To Go

New York, Sept. 21.—Harry Vardon, after several days of indisposition, came back to his real golfing self yesterday at the Cherry Valley Club, Garden City, when, along with Edward Ray, he beat Jack Dowling, professional at Scarsdale, and Frank McNamara, the home professional, 3 up and 1 to go at 36 holes. Fully a thousand spectators were present.

Vardon was less variable than Ray, who on the average did not outdrive Frank who is Tom McNamara's younger brother.

In the morning round the victors took the first and third holes, all the others being halved. In the afternoon the Britishers alternated between two and three up to the turn, gaining a lead of 4 holes at the thirtieth. Then McNamara won the thirty-first with a par 4 and Dowling the next two with a birdie 3 and par 3 respectively. That left the Britishers 1 up.

Vardon came in strongly with a perfect 4 at the sixteenth, and he and his partner scooped the seventeenth with a pair of birdie 3. The bye hole was also played. A feature came at the ninth, where all four sank birdie 4s at the twenty-second hole. Dowling got down a 10-footer for a 4 to par 5, approaching capitally after two skillful wooden shots.

On the thirty-first hole Dowling lost his ball. Vardon came within six feet of the twenty-first hole on his second, being down in a birdie. At the seventh Varden missed his putt for a 2 by two feet, and at the fifteenth his chip shot hit the pin and he missed a 2 by an inch.

PRELIMINARY EVENTS IN POLICE ATHLETIC MEET THIS AFTERNOON AT 4:30

Heats To Be Run In 120 Yards Police Handicap; 120 Yards Hurdles: 220 Open And The School Boys—Good Week-End Sports Program

Charity is to be united with sport Saturday when the Police Sports are to be held at the Recreation Grounds. Permission was granted yesterday to the committee to charge $1.00 admission to the grounds and every cent of the money is to go into the China Famine Relief Fund.

"We have tons of tickets and we expect the people of the community to turn out by thousands with the double purpose of aiding the famine sufferers and seeing some worth while sports," said Sergeant Treacher, secretary of the Police Sports Committee, last night.

Preliminaries to the main events of Saturday are taking place daily. On Tuesday in the Five-a-Side football the Club won from the Police by three goals to two and the Xaviers won from the Customs by default, the latter team failing to appear for the match.

Today the Club will play the Recs and Xaviers will meet the team from the Electricity Department.

Heats will be run in the 120 yard Police Handicap, the 120 hurdles, the 220 Open and the School Boys.

The events today will begin at 4:30 o'clock.

Admiral Grayson Has Racing Stable On Eastern Track

Washington, (D. C.), Sept. 22.—Recent successes at the Saratoga race track of horses owned by Admiral Cary T. Grayson, physician to President Wilson, and of horses owned by men associated with Grayson in his racing activities, have brought the racing fever to the White House and have converted this staid and conservative institution into a veritable nest of tips, tipsters and betting enthusiasts.

Although Admiral Grayson does not appear on the cards as the owner of any of the thoroughbreds that have won the purses at Saratoga, it is well known here that a number of the horses raced by Samuel Ross, a Washington hardware dealer, are either owned entirely by Grayson or Grayson has a part interest in them.

Books And Authors

A new work by W. H. Hudson, never hitherto published, in two sumptuous volumes, is promised for Fall publication by E. P. Dutton & Co. Its title will be "Birds of La Plata," and it will contain, in addition to the descriptions of the birds that Mr. Hudson so much loves, written with that combination of poetic feeling and scientific accuracy that his readers are familiar with, twenty-two full page plates in color, the making of which the author has personally supervised. Publication will be simultaneous in England and the United States and the entire edition will be limited to 3,000 copies, of which half will be distributed in this country.

A collection of short stories by Georges Clemenceau, ex-Premier of France, will be published shortly by Doubleday, Page & Co. The stories are reminiscent of the author's boyhood spent in the Vendee country and are said to give graphic glimpses of the life and character of the peasants. The "Tiger's" facility in literary mediums of many different kinds is well known. His novel, "The Strongest," when published in this country last year by Doubleday, Page & Co. won much praise. He once wrote a one-act play which was made into a musical comedy and enjoyed marked success in Paris, while many volumes of essays, addresses and treatises of various sorts are among the products of his pen.

Katherine Newlin Burt, whose new novel of the West, "Hidden Creek," will be a Fall publication of Houghton Mifflin Company, following the unusual success of her "the Branding Iron," and her husband, Maxwell Struthers Burt, whose "Songs and Portraits" is a Scribner publication, have a ranch in Wyoming, upon which they are spending the Summer.

W. L. George, whose two novels, "The Second Blooming" and "Blind Alley," and volume of essays on "The Intelligence of Woman" have made him known to American readers, has just arrived in this country, where he will lecture during the Fall and Winter season.

Charles F. Higham, whose "Looking Forward" is a Fall publication of Alfred A. Knopf, is a member of Parliament. During the war he directed the war-loan advertising for the British Government.

Two books by famous artists are announced for Fall publication by the University of Chicago Press—"The Graphic Arts," by Joseph Pennell, and "Modern Tendencies in Sculpture," by Lorado Taft. Mr. Pennell's volume deals with the modern development of all the graphic arts and is illustrated with reproductions in black and white and in color. Mr. Taft's book, which has five hundred illustrations, discusses the work and influence of American, German and French living or recent sculptors and the tendencies of the art in each of these countries. Mr. Taft's monumental group of sculpture, "The Fountain of Time," is now being placed in Washington Park, Chicago, near the university.

The Queen of Rumania not long ago met an American in Paris through whose conversation she became interested in current American books, and asked him to have sent to her a selection that would indicate what Americans are reading and so give her an insight into life and literary taste in this country. In response to her request there was lately sent a package containing, in addition to the two foreign novels, Conrad's "The Rescue" and Blasco Ibanez's "Woman Triumphant," the following stories: Bacheller's novel on Abraham Lincoln, "A Man for the Ages," Chamber's "Slayer of Souls;" Herschel S. Hall's "Steel Preferred," a tale of the Pittsburg steel mills; Richard Washburn Child's story of mystery and the Southwestern desert, "The Vanishing Men;" Dane Coolidge's "Wunpost," a very Western story of prospectors, miners and cowboys and the desert; "The Book of Susan," by Lee Wilson Dodd, and "Queen Lucia."

Joseph Bucklin Bishop's two-volume work on "Theodore Roosevelt and His Time" is announced for publication the latter part of September by Charles Scribner's Sons. Colonel Roosevelt himself mapped out the plan of the biography with Mr. Bishop long before his death and inspected and approved the plan and more than half of the matter. Three-fourths or more of the material, it is said, have never been published before in any form. The two volumes will be uniform with "Theodore Roosevelt: An Autobiogrphy," and will constitute Colonel Roosevelt's Life and Letters as designed by himself.

General interest in important biographical works is attested by the announcement of Houghton Mifflin Company that they have ordered the twenty-first printing of "The Education of Henry Adams," the eighth of the first and second volumes of Beveridge's "John Marshall," and the fourth of the third and fourth volumes, which appeared last Fall, a year later than the others.

For publication early next year the Stokes Company will have two novels by Lousise Jorden Miln, whose "Mr. Wu" has been widely read. The new stories will be "The Feast of Lanterns," a romance of Chinese life said to show much authentic color, and "The Purple Mask," made from the popular play of the same name.

Josephine Preston Peabody will next Winter join the ranks of the authors who interpret their works on the lecture platform and will deliver a number of lectures in which she will combine reading from her books with exposition of the ideas that run through them.

Rufus Rockwell Wilson, author of "New England in Letters," has been at work for several years making a complete collection of the letters of William Makepeace Thackeray and will publish the results of his labors within the next two or three months in two large volumes. The work will be privately printed and limited to 250 copies, of which only 200 will be offered for sale in the United States and England. The volumes will contain not only the letter groups and stray letters scattered through many books, but also a very great number that have been either published only in privately circulated books or not hitherto printed at all. He has brought to the light many rare Thackeray items and has had in his search the co-operation of the Thackeray collectors of England and America. Mr. Wilson as arranged and annotated all the letters in chronological order.

A new edition of "American Presidents," by Thomas F. Moran of Purdue University, is announced for early publication by the Thomas Y. Crowell Company. It includes a survey of the personal traits of each of our Presidents, beginning with Washington and including Wilson, together with an estimate of the effect of their personalities upon history.

The theme of Americanisation worked out through the development of a boy's club has been used by Harold S. Latham in his new story, "Jimmy Quigg, Office Boy," which narrates the experiences and adventures of a lad who has to get out and work to furnish aid for his family and who as an office boy runs into some strange people and mysterious adventures. It will be published by the Macmillam Company early in October.

"The Fellowship of the Picture," which E. P. Dutton & Co. have ready for immediate publication, is another of the automatic scripts of curious genesis of which the last few years have seen so many. It has an introduction by the Rev. Percy Dearmer, Professor of Ecclesiastical Art in the University of London and author of a long list of books, who explains that the writing was done by his wife and that both she and he had always felt a strong distaste for all psychic manifestations. The writing purported to be done by a friend of theirs, whom he describes as "a well-known man of academic distinction and singularly pure and high character," and Mr. Dearmer says that they are publishing the work because they believe it has "great intrinsic merit," whatever may be the truth about its origin. It is based on the idea that human life presents itself to God's eye as a picture and that to make the picture good and fine men must work in fellowship and co-operation.

In the London theater in which Drinkwater's play, "Abraham Lincoln," was being performed this conversation was overheard: Said a young woman to her elderly companion: "This is a fine play. Really, I never knew much about Abraham Lincoln before, except that he never told a lie." "I agree, my dear," the other replied, "that it's a very impressive play, but you must admit that the ending is highly improbable."

Several books of travel will be brought out this Fall by the Lippincotts, including "Seeing the Far West," by John T. Faris; "In Old Pennsylvania Towns," by Anne Hollingsworth Wharton; "In Unknown China," by S. Pollard; "Modern Travel," by N. J. Davidson, and "Among the Ibos of Nigeria," by G. T. Basden.

THE ADORABLE DREAMER

The Adorable Dreamer. By Elizabeth Kirby. George H. Doran Company.

A very light but not unamusing little story is that of Penelope Grey, whom Elizabeth Kirby calls "The Adorable Dreamer." Penelope has very pretty, very charming, only 23 years old, a novelist with "a public of her own" and a very sweet and childishly appealing little person. Every man she met fell in love with her—usually at first sight—which she absorbed as simply and joyously as "a hungry kitten" does cream.

Yet with all this and plenty of money besides, Penelope was not happy. She was in love—or thought she was in love—with an elderly and famous explorer, Sir Anthony Fayre, a singular individual who "had fallen in love with the author of 'Garbage,' ignoring the existence of an earth-bound Penelope," and was always urging her "to concentrate on her career" and write another book, which was something Penelope had not the slightest inclination to do, though she did go so far as to decide on "Hell" for a title. Instead of writing the novel, however, she went forth to find a "Cause" to which she might devote herself and thereby satisfy her thirst for adventure and for romance, and around this quest the story is spun. The little tale has some pathetic and some whimsical bits, and Penelope herself, though a trifle absurd at times, is a quaint and appealing heroine, while the author's style is agreeable.

THE BLACK KNIGHT

The Black Knight. By Mrs. Alfred Sidgwick and Crosbie Garstin. New York: Henry Holt & Co.

This story is of two pawns of fortune, one of whom turns out a Knight and the other a Queen. How the one struggles through adventure in the Canadian wheatfields, lumber regions and more civilised sections until, with fortune made, he encounters the other, with fortune lost, in a gambling dive of Paris, to which she has been unwittingly lured, and how they marry, is told in two books, although now, with Victorian "three-deckers" out of fashion, these are labeled "Part I. and Part II."

"The Black Knight" is ill-constructed. The difference in atmosphere between the two parts—Canadian wilds and Parisian wildness—is supplemented by a vast difference in style and interpretation. Logically, collaboration should be successful. Garstin knows Canada and men; Mrs. Sidgwick knows Paris and women; but the collaboration is only a juncture of opposites and not a mixture of complementary elements. In short, however faithful and interesting a collection of adventures the two authors may have chronicled, however successful they may have been in parts, as a unified whole their book fails because of a lack of unity in construction, in style, in character and in place.

THE LONELY HOUSE

The Lonely House. By Mrs. Belloc Lowndes. George H. Doran Company.

It is perhaps a tradition fostered by the literary heritage that has descended to us from the days of "Udolpho" and those other bloodcurding tales which so rejoiced the hearts of Catherine Marland and her friend Isabella, which makes an Italian or semi-Italian setting seem so peculiarly fitted to romances of crime, mystery and horror. Although it is in the tiny Principality of Monaco that Mrs. Belloc Lowndes has placed the action of her new and very gruesome romance, the villa which is "The Lonely House" of the title is of an Italian type, and the whole novel has an Italian flavor.

To this villa, built on the side of the mountain overlooking Monte Carlo, "a long, low, white-washed house," with groves of orange and of olive trees all about it, and called "La Solitude," on account of its isolated position, came Lily Fairfield, a charming young English girl. An orphan, she had been brought up by an uncle and aunt, and after the death of this aunt her own health had broken down, and the doctor advised that she spend the following Winter in the South.

The reader must be permitted to follow for himself the course of Lily's strange and exciting adventures, as well as of her pretty love story. The adventures were many and perplexing, from those puzzling noises which brought her out of bed during her first night at "The Lonely House" to that culminating, thrilling moment when, at the command of "Papa Popeau," two powerful torches "were turned full on the strangest sight which even the famous Secret Service agent had ever gazed upon." The tale is well written and cleverly developed. Incident following incident in a way which keeps the reader's interest always on the alert, and makes convincing a plot which, though highly melodramatic, is by no means improbable.

Children Cry for Fletcher's

CASTORIA

Fletcher's Castoria is particularly a preparation for Infants and Children made agreeable to the taste, acceptable to the stomach and pleasant in its action. It has been in use for over thirty years and has always been one of the most highly esteemed of all cathartic preparations. It has one great advantage over other preparations of its kind in that while it opens the organs readily and completely, it does not have a tendency to produce subsequent constipation so much to be dreaded.

It was only after years of research in the fields of herbs and roots for a combination of purely vegetable matter that would have all the virtues of Castor Oil, without its disagreeable, nauseating properties, especially when used for infants or children, that the formula used in Fletcher's Castoria was found, and which for over 30 years has proven its worth. Try it.

Save the Babies.

Infantry mortality is something frightful. We can hardly realise that of all the children born in civilised countries, twenty-two per cent., or nearly one quarter die before they reach one year, thirty-seven per cent., or more than one-third, before they are five, and one half before they are fifteen! We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save many of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity, they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestion, sickness, death. To avoid any possibility of giving your child opiates, or narcotics of any kind, keep Fletcher's Castoria in the house, and Save the Babies.

of the ordinary crops. The other parts of the country yielded absolutely nothing. The rain-gauge in Sienhsien registered 58 millimeters of rain for a period of 18 months, from August 1, 1919, to Sept. 8, 1920. These figures explain everything. Sowing has been out of the question, and where it has been attempted, the crops were dried up and burned by the sun.

UNTIL JUNE, 1921

It is therefore absolutely certain that the famine will rage until June 1921, even if grain can be sown this fall; until September 1921, if sowing-time is delayed. The number of inhabitants forced to leave the country—a sad event already begun—daily increases and unless grain can be sown, this exodus will become general.

2.—It seems probable that if the Government distributes food to the markets of the interior, those who have sufficient money to buy foodstuffs can be saved. But will the poor be condemned to face death by starvation? There lies the cruciating question.

3.—It is impossible for the missionaries of the interior to succor the entire mass of the starving people. They must neccssarily limit their help to that part of the population most worthy of interest, the children, regardless of the religion to which the children belong. Two classes of children are more easily reached:

CARE FOR CHILDREN

A.—The school-children, who besides material aid would receive a moral education.

B.—The little girls abandoned or in danger of being sold or of dying of hunger.

4.—What means are at hand for coming to the help of these two classes of children?

It must be kept in mind that the missionaries of the interior, as a matter of fact and experience in Southeast Chihli, cannot, without immense difficulties, distribute millet soup to the needy. Such distribution cannot be limited, cannot possibly be controlled and gives rise to complaints, to jealousy and even to quarrels.

Such being the case, two other means seem more reasonable.

a.—In the village schools, open to all regardless of religion, give to the children, who assist as day scholars, 10 cents—the equivalent of one meal per day. This amount, given in money, could thus be useful to the large families whose children attend school.

b.—In the girls' boarding-schools throughout the Vicariate (about 15 in all, with a maximum of 800 pupils), gather in all young girls abandoned or in physical or moral danger.

5.—What amount of money would this require? 8000 dollars per month would probably take care of those in greatest hardship. This sum would be divided between the eight district directors according to the population of each district.

DEPENDS ON FUNDS

A detailed report would be made of the children succored or gathered in, of the money distributed and of the general expenses for the board of teachers of both sexes as well as for that of the little girls harbored (clothes, food, etc.) The number of children to whom aid or protection will be given, will depend on the amount of money placed at our disposal.

Nevertheless, the greatest number of children that can thus be taken care of, must necessarily be limited by the buildings under the Mission's control—that is, about 10,000 children in all, boarders and day-scholars included.

Whatever alms may be sent us, our Benefactors are assured of our starving children's deep gratitude. The missionaries who will have the pleasure of being their agents for the distribution of their donations will be especially grateful to them.

Second Chinese Declines To Act As Council Advisor

Mr. Chen Cho-koo, manager of the Sing Ming Printing Press, yesterday declined to accept the directorship of the Chinese Ratepayers' Association to which he was elected last Saturday.

Mr. Chen is the second director to resign from the new board, which is to elect the five advisors to the Municipal Council, Dr. F. C. Tong of the Cantonese Guild being the first.

It is understood that Mr. C. C. Pao, correspondent for the Social Welfare, a Tientsin paper, is also contemplating his resignation on the ground that his residence in Shanghai has not reached the five-year qualification.

Mr. Chen and Dr. Tong will be succeeded by Mr. Wu Ting-sung and Mr. Wu Chi-chen, the alternates who secured the largest number of votes.

Pan-Pacific Union To Meet Tomorrow

Mr. Charles Denby And Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, Consul At San Francisco, To Speak

The third meeting of the Pan-Pacific Association, which postponed from last Thursday will be held tomorrow beginning at 12:29 o'clock at the Carlton Cafe. Mr. Chu Chao-hsin, consul-general for San Francisco, will be the principal speaker. Mr. Charles Denby, former American Consul-General at Shanghai, is to preside.

The meeting will be open to ladies and friends of members. Tickets can be secured at the door. Those who intend to bring large numbers of guests are requested to communicate with Mr. Allen G. Loehr, secretary of the entertainment committee.

Mr. Denby has returned to Shanghai as manager for the Far East of Gaston, Williams and Wigmore, and this is his first public appearance after a long absence.

Mr. Chu will speak on the foreign trade of China, particularly as it is related to the United States.

Accuse Accountant Of Attempted Fraud

A Chinese accountant appeared in the Mixed Court yesterday charged with attempting to defraud the Bank of Communications of $9,400.

Mr. Zia, who appeared for the Bank, stated that it was customary when a check was to be cashed for the person cashing it to be given a brass tab, which he presented at another counter. In this instance a tab had evidently been left lying on the counter and had come into possession of the accused.

Dr. Fischer, appearing for the defendant, denied the charge and said that the accused had been sent by his master in the morning to get the check cashed and that he had been given the brass tab and told to return in the afternoon. When he returned he was told that the money had already been paid. The case was adjourned for one week, defendant to be released on $500 shop security.

Country Club Giving Party For Kiddies

Children of members of the Columbia Country Club and their little friends will be entertained Saturday afternoon at a picturesque Hallowe'en party in costume between the hours of 4 and 8 o'clock. Games and dancing are to be features of the afternoon and a number of surprises are being planned for the youngsters.

Mrs. Atkinson is chairman of the committee in charge of the affair and the other members are: Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Doremus, Mrs. Lane, Mrs. Lowell, Mrs. Bunn and Mrs. Hale. The decorations are being planned by Mrs. Smith and Mrs. Doremus and the games by Mrs. Lane and Mrs. Bunn. Mrs. Hale and Mrs. Lowell are in charge of the refreshments.

Injuries Not Serious In Motor Accident

The injuries sustained by the two Chinese through the accident Monday night on North Honan Road Bridge when a Chinese Postal Service truck ran into the railings of the bridge were considered by the doctors in charge as slight, according to a statement made by the Postal authorities. Only one of the injured man was thrown over the bridge. The chauffeur who is still in the employ of the service, did not disappear after the smash, as was at first reported. The accident, according to the postal authorities, was due to a defect in the car gear.

Ex-Service Men To Have Clubhouse

(Reuter's Pacific Service)

Tientsin, Oct. 27.—A large and enthusiastic meeting of the United Services Association yesterday evening decided to open a headquarters club on the 1st of next month at the old South Wales Borderers mess, which is centrally situated and affords excellent quarters. The subscriptions will be very moderate and within the reach of all ex-service men. It is hoped that ex-members of the services from other parts will use the club when passing through Tientsin.

EMERGENCY BILL PASSES SECOND HOUSE READING

Labor Leaders Fail To Overcome Argument Of Bonar Law

(Reuter's Service)

London, Oct. 25.—In the House of Commons today, Mr. Bonar Law, replying to Mr. W. Adamson and Mr. J. H. Thomas, declined to defer the Emergency Powers Bill, pending the result of the strike negotiations, as the Government is of the opinion that the Bill is necessary.

Mr. Bonar Law subsequently moved the second reading of the Bill. He denied the assertion that the Bill was an attack on Trades Unions, and stated that the Bill would only be put into operation in the event of action being taken or being immediately threatened, calculated to deprive the community of the essentials of life, when the measure would empower the Government to control all food in the country.

Mr. Bonar Law also denied that the Bill was provocative, and declared that although negotiations had been reopened, they had not reached the stage when it was possible to say anything about them.

Mr. Adamson moved the rejection of the Bill, which he described as panic legislation.

Prior to the debate, Mr. T. P. O'Connor obtained leave to move an adjournment to draw attention to the renewal of "the policy of frightfulness in Ireland by indiscriminate shooting, flogging and incendiarism, and the arming of Orange Volunteers in Ulster."

The Labor motion for the rejection of the Bill was defeated by 257 votes to 55, and the Bill passed the second reading.

S.S. Delegates Go Home On Tenyo Maru

The T. K. K. Steamer Tenyo Maru, when she leaves for Japan ports and San Francisco Sunday, will take from this port 150 delegates to the World Sunday School Convention, recently held in Japan. Most of the contingent to join the ship here for the homeward journey will arrive from Peking the day the Tenyo sails. The outgoing tender leaves the Customs jetty at 3 p.m.

Give Ball Tonight To Aid Hebrew Fund

Indications Are For Large Attendance For Function At Astor

A grand ball will be held at the Astor House Hotel this evening in aid of the Shanghai Hebrew Relief Fund. The advance sale of tickets indicates that there will be large attendance. Tickets for the ball, including supper, may be obtained for $3 each.

OBATA DEMANDS APOLOGY FROM PEKING, REPORT

Chinese Gunboats Accused Of Having Taken Part In Nikolaievsk Incident

(Staff Wire To THE CHINA PRESS)

Peking, Oct. 27.—Mr. Obata, the Japanese Minister, conferred the Ministry of Foreign Affairs for two hours yesterday with reference to the alleged participation by Chinese gunboats in the so-called Nikolaievsk massacre.

The discussion at the conference was based on the findings of the Joint Sino-Japanese Commission. While the findings have not yet been published, it is reported that they are adverse to China's case and show that the gunboats had refused protection for Japanese while offering refuse to Russians. It is further alleged that the gunboats supplied guns to the Russian residents in the city, which afterwards fell into the hands of the massacring party.

It is reported that Obata has presented severe demands to the Ministry, including an official apology from the Chinese Government.

N. Y. Truck Drivers Are Refused Raise

(Reuter's Service)

New York, October 25.—Trucking companies here have passed a resolution, refusing the demands of 50,000 employes for an increase in wages of $7 a week and the reduction of working hours from nine to eight. The resolution declares that labor should share with others the burden of restoring normal adjustment of prices.

Americans Preparing To Observe Holiday

American residents of Shanghai generally have been asked to attend the meeting to be held at the American Consulate at 5:15 o'clock this afternoon when plans for the observence of Thanksgiving Day will be discussed.

It is expected that one or more committees will be named to arrange a program of which a Thanksgiving service football game, dinner and dance probably will be details.

Industrial Centers Vote For 'Dry' Law

(Reuter's Service)

Montreal, Oct. 27.—The general plebiscite on the question of prohibiting the importation of liquors into each Province from other Provinces has resulted in a victory for the "drys" in Alberta Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Nova Scotia. The cities of Winnipeg and Halifax voted against prohibition, but nearly all the mining and industrial centers which were expected to vote "wet" returned "dry" majorities.

How to Preserve the Teeth

In order to keep the teeth in a good condition scientific precaution must be taken. Through negligence, decay and numerous other affections such as tooth-ache, dental periostitis esteo-periostitis, necrosis of the jaw, etc., may arise. During the process of ingestion, there are settled on the teeth, some deposits of mineral and organic matters, called tartar, which possess a morbid power of pressing the gum. As an inevitable result of the presence of this tartar, the teeth will become elongated and movable and will, by degrees, absorb away the enamel, leading ultimately to the decay and degeneration of the teeth. The tartar is so hard and resistant to the process of brushing that it cannot be scraped off except with dental instruments specially devised for that purpose.

Dr. KINGMAN offers to the public his service for preserving their teeth at an annual subscription Fee of $10.00 per head to be paid in advance.

The work to be done by Dr. KINGMAN to the subscribers consists in:—

(1) Cleaning of the teeth quarterly
(2) Filling with gold platinum alloy only, when the teeth present holes.
(3) Inspecting the teeth at any time at the desire of the subscribers.

The New Consortium

BY JEREMIAH W. JENKS, Ph.D. LL.D.

(Research Professor of Government and Public Administration, New York University; Chairman, Alexander Hamilton Institute; and Director, The Far Eastern Bureau).

So much is dependent upon the successful working of the new Consortium, from many points of view, that it is extremely desirable for Americans to understand its significance and plans. It is scarcely too much to say that the Consortium affords by far the best, if not indeed the only way, for the present at least, of rehabilitating China; of protecting the interests of foreign nations both in China and in dealings with China; and through the harmonious action of the powers, of exerting an influence that, by smoothing out many existing political misunderstandings and difficulties, may avoid a rupture of the peace in the Far East which otherwise many people have felt may well prove inevitable.

In the first place, China is really, for the time being, in desperate financial straits. In connection with the military expenditures especially, there has been a current monthly deficit of about $6,000,000, which has been accumulating for many months. The expenses of the central government are probably running three or four times the amount that has been received during a large part of the last few years since the difficulties within the country have checked materially the receipts. Advances have been made to the government, not only by the Bank of China and the Bank of Communications, but also by other Chinese banks, many of which should be promptly repaid. The more thoughtful Chinese propose as prompt a loan as possible of about $50,000,000 to take care of the immediate pressing needs for payment and for the beginning of a reorganisation while certain of the older claims in arrears would be cared for by a funded loan to be paid off gradually in the future.

But aside from the financial situation, the Consortium has also great political significance. Many of China's international problems have come from concessions which she has made to individual foreign nations or Powers, and from foreign loans with which were connected certain exclusive rights or privileges. This bidding of the different powers for special advantages, the Consortium, if handled as suggested, would largely prevent for the future. If this result can be attained, it will probably do more to prevent, in the future, China's difficulties with foreign governments than any other single thing that has been proposed.

Moreover, there is perhaps equal reason to believe that the Consortium would solve many of China's internal difficulties. No one questions that the strife between the North and the South, or between the different factions holding different political views—if one prefers to put the matter in that way—has been fomented and continued by foreign interests based, sometimes at least, upon foreign financial advances. Harmonious action of the leading lending countries, with a real pooling of their interests, would greatly lessen if not entirely stop these difficulties.

Of course, no final judgment regarding the Consortium can be made until its plans are worked out in detail, and perhaps not until these plans have been in effect for some little time. It is stated "that all loans to the Chinese government or those guaranteed by the Chinese government which were to be raised by public issue, whether they were of political or of economic character, should be pooled and reserved exclusively" to the Consortium.

In a very significant address made by Mr. Lamont in Shanghai last April, he amplified this general statement somewhat. He placed chief emphasis upon the thought that no attempt would be made to influence unduly the Chinese government to take any such loans. China would be assisted "provided China desires that assistance." He also laid special emphasis upon the point that the plan was non-political. In his judgment, it would be largely, if not mostly, for the development of great public industrial enterprises. If China desired it, probably money would be advanced for the reform of her currency, a reform that has been urgent—even consciously urgent on the part of the more farseeing Chinese statesmen and business men, for a period of from fifteen to twenty years. Certainly assistance would be given for the development as rapidly as possible of China's great systems of transportation. This is another improvement that has been strongly urged for a generation. It looks now, for the first time, as if there were reasonable hope of a unified railroad plan, suited to the best interests of China alone, and not primarily for the advantage of separate nationalities. It is quite possible also, aside from these two main economic enterprises, that assistance might be rendered for the improvement of certain harbors that are really national in significance, or for the development of some of the great internal waterways that have for centuries played so great a part in Chinese methods of inland communication.

The range of such industrial developments, of course, is very great.

The fixing of the attention of the Chinese government upon industrial development, rather than upon political foreign policies, if of very great importance; and if the four great powers of the Consortium, with others that may later join them, will unite in joint action through the pooling of financial interests for the development of China, not only will China's foreign problems be much more easily handled but many of her internal difficulties would be solved. For example, a suggestion has been lately made in China that the difficulty of disbanding troops, with the assistance of foreign loans for that purpose, could be largely obviated if the troops were to be put to work building railroads constructed by an industrial loan. One hour a day of drill and eight hours of work on the railroads, it is thought, might go a long way toward enabling the Chinese army to render a real service to the country and would do nothing to lessen their military efficiency.

Again, if the Consortium turns the minds of the Chinese toward industry, it will almost certainly mean that Chinese business men, who are known the world over for their uprightness as well as their ability, will soon come to take a much larger part than in the past in conducting the affairs of China, and that will doubtless have an excellent influence. Heretofore, the Chinese government has largely owned and managed the railroads. There is reason to believe that even the railroads might well be managed even more efficiently and profitably than many of the present roads have been if they were more largely in the hands of Chinese business men, provided, of course, that the roads were planned for the good of China as a whole and had proper governmental supervision. What might well be true of the railroads would almost certainly be true of many other enterprises.

On the whole, much is to be hoped for from the Consortium. Its promotion and development seem to be along right lines, and the future of China is likely to be largely dependent upon it.

TENNYSON'S HOUSE

Tennyson's house is for sale. That reminds one of all that used to be gossiped about the great poet in his old age. One story is told by Frederic Harrison—now almost a nonagenarian and going strong still, he spoke for nearly an hour and a-half a few weeks ago at a Positivist meeting. Everybody of Tennyson's generation may remember that the poet affected a somewhat peculiar style in dress, the most remarkable features of which were a large sombrero-like soft hat and a great cloak like that of a Spanish warrior either going into battle or to his lady's balcony. The cloak and the hat added greater gloom and picturesqueness to the long thin face, the mass of hair, and the beard; it was the best makeup for the poet I ever saw on or off the stage. Once when he and Mr. Harrison were taking a walk on the Surrey hills, Tennyson saw some trippers approaching. He affected to be greatly distressed lest he should be recognised. The innocent trippers passed; they did not turn even to look at the picturesque poet. Tennyson turned to Harrison with bitter disappointment—these fellows had actually not recognised him.

A POET'S SENSITIVENESS

But poets are notoriously sensitive; and Tennyson was extraordinarily so. Bram Stoker—Henry Irving's secretary and factotum—gave an amusing account of a visit he paid to Tennyson at the time when he was negotiating for the production of "Becket." Tennyson made one long complaint of what the critics were saying about him. As a matter of fact, no man was ever better treated by the critics than Tennyson after he had established himself; that, of course, was a little late; he was forty before he made his first big success. But from then onwards every reviewer exhausted his adjectives in praise of the great poet's wonderful work. But Tennyson knew only of the little stings now and then inflicted; and he actually said to Stoker that he often wished he had never written a line so that these fellows might not have had the opportunity of assailing him.—Exchange.

BY THE WAY

Apropos British flying officers abroad, how many people know that the Baltic republics of Esthonia, Lithuania and Latvia all have small but very effective flying services, which have been trained and oganised for them by demobbed R.A.F. officers. Their machines are mostly British, though some of them are machines left behind by the Germans. Their pilots are good, steady fliers, and their mechanics are quite competent. All of which has a good deal to do with the respect with which Lenin and Co. treat these tiny but determined States.

SHE STOOPS TO CONQUER IN FACT

It appears from paragraphs that besprinkle the Home papers, that Mrs. Lloyd George has discovered the charms of bowls, and is having a bowling green laid at her country house in Surrey, the stooping movement which the game necessitates being good for keeping the figure slender and supple.

Now, of course, we understand the popularity of the game among so many of our local players.

A Book Of Ancient Manners

BY BENJAMIN DE CASSERES

There are laws against murder. Any one advocating murder is arrested. There are laws against theft, arson, forgery and seditious acts. Any one who incites to any of these crimes must answer to Society. And Society, of course, is right. To advocate the proscribed is often worse than the commission of the deed. We hold Iago responsible for the murder of Desdemona, not Othello. What would he think of an anthology of murder-songs or a Palgrave's Treasury of poems celebrating the delights of counterfeiting?

Drinking intoxicating liquors in these States is now a crime. Ale, beer, wine, gin and whisky are now ranked with opium, Bolshevism and selling "Jurgen." The United States of America, founded by bone-dry men and made one and indissoluble by that famous prohibitionist, General Grant, became the greatest and most powerful nation on earth on water. So it is clearly right to stop the manufacture, sale and public ingurgitation of those liquids that threaten to upset the Republic.

Look at the decline of Rome and Greece. Rum. Where are the prowess and the progeny of Spain, Sidon, Tyre and Rameses? In the rum barrel. Consider the decline of China, Prince Edward's Island, Turkey, Nova Zembla and the Winnebagos. Rum.

Comes, then, for review, in the midst of this earthly paradise, a fat and thirsty serpent to whisper in our ear the magic in malt, the aves in ale, the rah! rah! in rye and the whatterhell in wine. Ah, the Evil One assumeth many shapes, and he may come as a book.

He does—it is called "A Tankard of Ale," being an anthology of drinking songs, composed by those ancient Sons of Sin, Bishop Still, Samuel Johnson, William Congreve, Thomas Dekker, Sir John Suckling, Lord Byron, Sir Walter Scott, William M. Thackeray, Robert Burns, G. K. Chesterton, John Masefield, Hilaire Belloc, Richard Brinsley Sheridan and dozens of other enemies of morality, including that veritable son of Satan, William Shakespeare, who had the effrontery to sing to the ages:

Come, thou monarch of the wine,
Plumpy Bacchus with pink eyne!
In thy vats our cares be drowned,
With thy grapes our hairs be crowned;
Cup us, till the world go round,
Cup us, till the world go round.

This book ought to be put on Mr. Burleson's and Mr. Anderson's Index. Why is it permitted to circulate and debauch us with visions beyond the reaches of our souls and thirsts beyond the reaches of our gullets? Why should a man be permitted to celebrate that which is taboo? Is not this book an incitation to crime?

Where did—how dare he!—Mr. Maynard dig up these crooning crews of drunken dithyrambists and anapestic ancients of days that are gone, happily never to return! Our sins are bottled in bond. Let them remain there!

Mr. Maynard has written an introduction to this dangerous book in which he defends beer and ale. Catch him! To the stocks with the rascal! He is sowing seeds of evil—even unto Chautauqua. He should have the Salem A branded on his bosom—A for ale—so that he be known of all men and women in our godly commonweal.

And then he brazenly quotes bad old Bishop Still, who lived in the dark years of the sixteenth century:

Back and side go bare, go bare!
Both foot and hand go cold!
But, belly, God send thee good ale enough
Whether it be new or old!

Surely this Bishop is now in Purgatory begging for ice with Falstaff and that diabolical son of Auld Nick, Bobby Burns.

Then, aside from the moral and legal aspect of the instigation to perpetual transgression in this book, there is the cruelty of it. Alcohol is gone in this country as completely as lynching. You cannot buy, beg or borrow it in any form. The prohibition law is a complete and almost ultra-utter success. But here comes Iago Maynard to dangle grapes and steins and seidels and tankards and wassail bowls and tobies and petit punies right above our lips. May Tantalus get him!

It is himself that sings:

I wouldn't sell my noble thirst
For half a dozen bags of gold;
I'd like to drink until I burst—and so on. Atavism pure and simple, and a superb case for old Doc Freud.

And here's an old scamp that Mr. Maynard passes off as Lord Byron singing:

In the goblet alone no deception is found.

And now a certain William Blake, who is made to say:

Dear mother, dear mother, the Church is cold;
But the Alehouse is healthy and pleasant and warm.

What a sinner this poor Mr. Blake must have been! He couldn't land at Ellis Island today—thank Heaven!—with such sentiments up his sleeve.

One Robert Burns is marshaled to the support of Our National Curse in these shameless lines:

We are na fu'; we are na fu';
But just a drappie in the ee.
The cock may craw; the day may daw—
But still we'll drink the barley bree,

This, of course, is not the sainted Mr. Robert Burns who wrote that world-shaking ode in praise of the unco guid. It may have been the one who wrote, "Water, water, all around, but I don't want none to drink."

This book is so sinful, shameful and delightful that I am afraid to read it. My feet may stray to those lands full of pitfalls and gin. It puts riotous and forbidden images in my skull. This book has power to crack the will of a revenue agent.

Fabian Strategy In Italy

(New York Times, Sept. 21)

Indications multiply that Syndicalism in Italy is shifting from the Russian to the Guild precept, abandoning the dictatorship of the proletariat for the "Fabian" idea. A week ago Signor Baldesi said: "The middle class which works and produces has nothing to fear from us," and presaged an application of "the same principles that have begun to be accepted in England." Now the Stampa, a stanch supporter of Giolitti, gives highly significant details as to the committee which the Premier is to appoint for the purpose of submitting to Parliament a proposal as to the "democratisation" of Italian industry. Of the twelve members, six are to be appointed by the masters and six by the men; but each sextet is to contain two members representing the technical and managerial element in industry. In brief, the middle class of brain workers, which the labor movement has in the main ignored and which the Bolsheviki have enslaved, is to receive the balance of power—four votes in a committee of twelve.

The fact marks an important step in trying to rationalise Syndicalism—and, incidentally, in showing up its essential unreason and impossibility. But it has an even more striking political importance. Not only the Guildsmen are Fabian. The "concrete proposals" of Giolitti's committee of workmen, owners and brain workers are to determine "the participation of workmen in the technical, financial and disciplinary management of factories." That will unquestionably prove a hard nut to crack, and of all the members of the committee none are more likely to realise the difficulty than the men of technical training and managerial experience. Democracy implies voting; successful democracy implies voting intelligently. But how are the workmen to cope effectively with technical and financial problems? The old question as to irresistible forces and immovable objects fades in comparison as a fountain head of debate. Meantime the committee, first of all, is to arrange terms upon which the factories from which the owners and managerial forces are at present locked out may resume work on the normal basis. While the committee cogitates and the Chamber of Deputies disputes, the wheels of industry will be turning. As Fabians the English are mere amateurs. Quintus Fabius Maximus Veruccosus, the original Cunctator or Delayer, was an Italian. Only he and his countrymen are able to deal triumphantly with such problems as d'Annunzio and Bolshevism.

In the program as outlined there remains the head of "disciplina." Broadly interpreted, it covers many matters of moment in which workmen may well have a say. In all countries, excepting only Russia, there is a marked tendency to refer the more personal and human problems to the judgment of the men, who know them best and are most intimately affected by them. More than this, there is a tendency to admit the men, through delegates whom they elect, into a definite relationship with the higher councils of the establishment. Signor Baldesi referred hopefully to experiments along these lines which have taken place in the United States, and which in many cases have raised the morale of the workmen. It is possible, and much to be desired, that out of the turmoil in Italy will come new light and leading as to the humanising of labor—a very different thing from its so-called "democratisation."

Ideas And Bankruptcy

(New York Times)

Speaking in the guise of a friend, Henry Arthur Jones girds at the English "repertory" theaters for their devotion to plays "that have survived the test of artistic integrity" and declares that "freakishness, perversity, eccentricity, the diffusion of 'ideas' are poor stock in trade for a theater, and soon lead to bankruptcy." He congratulates Shakespeare on having "avoided being a social reformer," and quotes Goethe to the effect that "Shakespeare and Moliere wished above all things to make money by their theaters."

Shakespeare avoided social reform for precisely the same reason that he avoided lighting his theater with electricity. Countless passages, notably from the lips of Hamlet and King Lear, show that he was keenly alive to social injustice. Moliere was the originator and is still the great exponent of the comedy of social reform, from whom Eucene Brieux is lineally descended. And who is the author of the second part of "Faust" that he should be cited against the play of ideas? All three were practical managers and knew that in the long run no theater can succeed that does not keep in touch with the public; but if they had "avoided" the growing conscience of mankind and banned "ideas" they would not have been Shakespeare, Moliere and Goethe. Mr. Jones scouts the phrase "artistic integrity" and commends it to Mr. Austen Chamberlain for inclusion in the list of words which the Chancellor of the Exchequer lately proposed to tax out of existence. It might be enough to amend the phrase. Those only are great dramas the artistic integrity of which survives the test of the popular theater.

As for our so-called repertory theaters, their sufficient defense is that in the rival field of popular drama no one has been discovered who is able to supply drama which is at once artistic and prevailingly acceptable to the public. In the West End, as in Broadway, their is no Shakespeare, no Moliere, no Goethe. So "the Pentonville omnibus school of drama" does its best. Much of its product is freakish, perverse, eccentric; yet time and again it has produced plays, otherwise hopeless, which the commercial managers themselves have ultimately welcomed. Bernard Shaw is the most distinguished alumnus of the Pentonville omnibus school. The Abbey Theater and the Manchester players have a distinguished roll. Our own Washington Square Players and Theater Guild have added to the gayety of the nation—and to its ideas.

Mr. Jones especially addresses himself to the Birmingham Theater, which gave us "Abraham Lincoln." "This success," he alleges, "was due to the lucky discovery by the British public that Abraham Lincoln was very much like President Wilson and equally deserved a boom. In the same way Tennyson, with equal keenness of insight, discovered that the Prince Consort was very much like King Arthur." But what the American public chiefly discovered, and presumably the British public likewise, was that for once the repertory theater had produced a big, upstanding drama.

Growth As An Evil

(From N. Y. Times' Topics of the Times)

As a matter of fact, it is not advantageous for a city to grow when the growth is at the expense of the surrounding country districts—not advantageous, that is, except for people with real estate they want to sell, and some of the exultation heard of late over urban increments would have been turned to lamentation if wisdom were more abundant.

One place where this truth has received recognition is Montgomery, Ala. At any rate, The Advertiser of that town very earnestly and solemnly calls its readers' attention, as to something highly deplorable, to the fact that, while Montgomery has gained over 5,000 new inhabitants since the previous census, the county in which it is situated has lost enough more to create for the two a decrease of 1,325 in total population.

What makes this loss serious, though small, is that it has turned many acres of a distinctly agricultural region from production to non-production. Waste land now abounds where not long ago profitable crops were growing, and The Advertiser correctly says that the ultimate effects of this change, which is not peculiar to Montgomery county, will surely be disastrous to towns now boasting of rapid growth.

Expendicitis

(From the Los Angeles Times)

The national ailment is expendicitis. It develops when spender's itch strikes in and involves the blood. Sometimes an operation is necessary. If the income is cut out the ravages are instantly checked, but the operation is a heroic one and is apt to be trying on the patient. It is a good deal like cutting off a man's leg to save him from having

If A Bachelor, You've Got To Pay Your Way

BY RING W. LARDNER

To the Editor—A good many single bachelors often wonders why it is they don't get invited out oftener and get left out of so many partys and most of them resent it and thinks they are getting a raw deal where as in 9 cases out of 10 its their own fault. I mean to say that the main reason the hostesses overlooks them is on acct. of them not adding nothing to the party but they just set there like lumps on a log and never open their mouth only to receive a oyster or something. When a unattached man does get invited to dinner or somewheres the hostess expects them to show cause, in other words the only reason they was asked was to help keep the party up. A married man can stay in a stupor all evening and it don't make no differents as they have got to ask him again on accs. of his wife and the hostess having went to school together. But a bachelor has got to make a name for himself as good Co. and a lively wire or next thing you know they will be sending your invitations to the wrong address.

Several years ago before I teetered up to the hymeneal altar to indulge in the first marital nuptials I was liveing in a town that was dirty with social functions but all the mail I got was addressed with a typewriter and I finely asked a friend of mine if he knew what the ladies had vs. me and he says he had heard I of them say that the time I did come to her house all I done was eat and scratch mosquito bites where as if I had of showed a little life she would always be glad to include me in her partys as they was a big demand for singers birds that could be the life of the party and make the rest of the guests forget that the ice cream come from a drug store in the middle of the block. So I told her to give me another chance and if I didn't make good I would pretend like the rest of my life was Lent.

HOW TO BE A SOCIAL LION

Well boys I am not the kind that brag, but I went to this dame's hut again to a big dinner party and was a riot and since that time they hasn't been a night when I couldn't have dinner somewheres even it its in my own home and I thought maybe if I give you boys a couple hints about what to pull and now to pull it you might maybe not halt to put in no more lonesome evenings wasteing time like reading a book for inst.

Of course I use a different line of patter every place I go in the same town and I can't remember the exact lines I pull as most of them seems to come into my head without no effort and that's the kind that seems to go biggest, but any way I will try and tell you a few of the things I said last time I was out in the hopes you can catch the idear and take advantages.

This party was give at the Waldorf in N. Y. city by a lady and her husband name Mrs. Walter Glenn.

Well the first thing when I seen her I says "Hello. How's every little thing?"

I sprung it so quick she couldn't say nothing only just laugh.

I hadn't never seen most of the other guests before, but as each one was introduced to me I just kept still till they said they was pleased to meet me, then I'd say "The pleasure is all mine." After a wile we went in the dining room and of course the men folks all stood up till the ladies set down and then I says "Gentlemen be seated" like I thought it was a minstrel show or something. You ought to of heard them laugh. The ladies too.

Well I held back from then till the soup was served and then I made some remark about I was afraid to eat the soup for fear I would drown out the orchestra. The gal setting next to me near died.

They brought on some breast of chicken and somebody said how good it was and I says, "They's nobody can cook chicken like Mrs. Waldorf."

So the gal on my left says, "You don't really think Mrs. Waldorf cooked this chicken."

So I says, "You bet she did and that's Mr. Waldorf waiting on us." Then she seen I was kidding and pretty near exploded.

Along with the chicken they served peas and this gal says, "Oh, I just love new peas,' and I said, "I like them O. K. but they always roll off of my knife."

Pretty near everybody at the table heard this crack and I thought they would split their sides.

CLIMAX WITH THE COFFEE

Well we had a salad and then desert and some Rockford cheese and a demitasse cup of coffee and I made the remark that the coffee was pretty strong but if it come to a rough and tumble I would back the cheese, and then wile we were just setting there I gave them a story I had just heard about a couple of Irishmen Pat and Mike and 1 day they met and Pat says "Who was that lady I seen you walking down the street with last night?

And Mike says, "That wasn't no lady, that was my woife."

So they asked me for another new one and I told them about the two Hebrews Ikey and Mose and Ikey was sick and asked Mose to recommend him a good Dr. and Mose says to go to Dr. Levy and Ikey asked him how much did Dr. Levy charge and Mose says, "Ten dollars for the first visit and $5.00 dollars a visit after that."

So Ikey went up to Dr. Levy's office and when the Dr. come out Ikey says, "Here I am again Dr."

Of course I sprung both of them stories in dialect and they was nothing to do only I must keep telling some other new ones al evening and finely when it come time to go home Mrs. Glenn called me to 1 side and said she didn't know what she would have done only for me as the party would of died and she couldn't thank me enough.

That's whole secret boys, keep them laughing and don't never let up on them and once you get established you will half to hire a asst. to open the invitations and reply to same.

Quincy Todd On Supply And Demand

BY ROY K. MOULTON

My disreputable friend Quincy Todd is not what you would call a regular tradesman, which is by way of saying that he is not a merchant, but in spite of the fact that he does not make a business of it, Quincy is willing at all times to meet one and all when it comes to trading a broken-down airplane for a nickel-plated nail-file or bartering a discouraged Ford for a celluloid brush and comb set almost as good as new.

Which is to say that he admires to dicker in this and that, and he always says that he is willing to trade a second-hand lawn-mower for a porcelain bathtub if the other fellow will throw in a fireless cooker, a piano lamp and a set of Charles Dickens.

Quincy is born on a rocky farm up in New England—one of those farms where the ground is so hard you have to plant the seed with a shotgun and where they don't know any more about bartering than Edison knows about electricity.

"Which it is always a good thing to remember," says Quincy, "that before you start selling anything it it wise to create a demand for it. A man don't have to travel to Iceland to sell palmleaf fans to find it out, either.

"There are a lot of national political committees right now that are trying to sell the people something for which there is no demand, and it is like selling haircuts and shampoos in Russia. They have been trying to sell this here League of Nations to the American people, and it is like carrying fur overcoats to the natives of Algiers. They are hot enough as it is."

"This here law of supply and demand seems to be quite a law at that," says Elias Q. Higginbothan. "By whom is this law enacted and why? I hear about it every time I go to buy a bone collar-button or a lewsharp. It is all them profiteers can think about—the law of supply and demand."

"Who are the profiteers?" asks Quincy. "It is as the poet said, Everyone's a profiteer except thee and me, and I sometimes think thou art a little profiteer.'"

"I am not," says Elias Q. Higginbotham. "All I want to do is to make an honest living."

"That's the hardest kind to make in these days," says Quincy, "our civilisation has advanced so far. But at that, the law of supply and demand, which don't mean anything in itself, nine times out of ten, is the grandest little alibi that has been invented since the feller said, back in 1642, that he had been out all night sitting up with a sick lodge brother.

"We have always, by way of speaking, had this here law of supply and demand. It is wished on us when our ancestors began eating apples back in the Eden Musee.

"But the law of supply and demand don't get real popular so that everybody uses it until after our late deceased war, when people that never hear of it before begin talking about it in their sleep. When a profiteer's wife asks him why he didn't mail her letter or why he leaves the plug in the bathtub he tells her it on account of the law of supply and demand. Some people have it for embroidered wall mottoes, like God Bless Our Home or Love One Another.

cent law-abiding citizen,' he replies.

"I hope that law is repealed by the next administration, I say.

"'It will be a terrible blow to a business like mine if it is,' he says. 'Ho-hum, it's four o'clock,' he yawns, and he goes and marks the music-box up from $38 to $40.

"When the armistice comes he marks the music-box up $2 more, because he says there will be a great demand for music-boxes to relieve the strain of war. Then when prohibition comes he marks the music-box up again, because people not being able to drink will want to drown their sorrows in music, which it would be a terrible death for any sorrow to be drowned in music from that music-box of Henry T. Pink's. It might be good enough music for a hen that wants to lay more eggs, but a hen has got less brains than any other form of animals or bird life and her artistic soul ain't any larger than a nickel's worth of radium."

"But you got the music-box, don't you? asks Elias Higginbotham.

"Sure," says Quincy, "but I don't get it of him in his store. I get it of him about two months ago when Henry T. Pink and me and a couple of other church members are engaged in a friendly game in the back room of the drug store. I deal Henry T. Pink a splendid hand, consisting of four kings, and he bets head off until he finally gets cold feet and lays down and I cop the pot with four aces, which I happen to have by sheer good luck, and Henry T. Pink is about sixty berries short in the pot and is quite worried. So I haul off and say that if he will give me the old music-box I will call it square on his shortage in the pot, and he is so willing that it is pitiful and I am almost ashamed to take the music-box, but not quite enough ashamed to refuse, if you get what I mean. Henry T. Pink tells me later that he only pays $3 for the music-box in the first place.

"All of which proves that the law of supply and demand can be evaded if you know how, the same as any other law that is wrote on the statute books."

"Well, it is a tough law, at that," says Elias Q. Higginbotham, "but there must be some reason for it. I often wonder whether it would be worse to have a heck lot of supply and no demand, or"—

"Or to have a lot of demand and no supply," added Quincy, "like, for instance, hooch."

WHAT ARE YOU DOING TONIGHT?

Then how'd you like to do a society stunt, associating with limousine-lords and pearl necklaces on a free and equal footing?

Or take a fling at being a Wall Street king, playing with railroads and millions like toys and pennies?

Or help clean up a gang of western bandits, in a sharp flurry of mustangs, masks and six-shooters?

Or any one of a hundred sensations you'd love to experience?

All right—it's easy—go to the Olympic Theatre where they show Paramount-Artcraft Pictures—TONIGHT or Thursday, Friday or any night.
